Squeeze play

MIGUEL BOWSER (left), and Jimmy Ryan from Monterey made a trip to the Carmel Plaza a worthwhile one when they both got a big squeeze and a hug from Santa Claus. Holiday shoppers only have six more shopping days left until Christmas Day. The Carmel Business Association reminds shoppers that traditionally the year-end holidays are a slow period for tourism and Carmel businesses so there's plenty of parking in the city and very few crowds to contend with. Carmel shops will stay open until 9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 18 to allow local residents to shop worry-free. Call the CBA at 624-2522 for further information. (Holly McFarland photo.)

Bennett concerns

Dear Editor:

I am concerned over the proposed development of the Bennett property between Dolores and Second. I live on the southwest corner of Dolores and Second; we have owned the property for 35 years.

During all this time the steep ravine on which the Bennett property is located has been in a natural state. This "green space" within our city greatly enhances its livability; urban crowding does not.

I recall that recently the city purchased a parcel of land (the Gamble estate) to prevent its being overdeveloped. I would hope that the Bennett property might also be acquired in the same manner and for a natural reserve within the city.

It dismays me to think that this beautiful area may be subdivided into 11 lots and that the stream which drains it be contained in pipes or a walled channel. Carmel has always prided itself on its unchanging residential neighborhoods and its urban forest. To destroy this area by hanging yet more small homes on its steep hills, increasing vehicular congestion and removing trees, is a huge step backwards.

I hope that the planning commission, the city council, and Mayor Eastwood will consider an alternative to development. I feel that such a foresighted act would be in the best interests of all Carmel residents and would be supported by them.

Sensible solution

Dear Editor:

I am confused that the Carmel City Council is so development oriented. They plan a big building near the Pine Inn for a library annex. The land ought to be left as open space since there is so little of it left in the commercial district. What they plan is a building too big for the small amount of land involved. The city should not do that.

A letter in your paper suggested that Carmel buy the Crocker building near Devendorf Park for a library annex. That makes a lot of sense since it gets the city out of new construction and development.

Re-evaluate water policy

Dear Editor:

Carmel has recently sued the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District and has asked the court to (1) prohibit the enforcement of the existing water allocation systems, (2) prohibit the district from enacting restrictions on the issuance of permits within Carmel, and (3) require the district to provide "all available water" to Carmel.

Unfortunately, Carmel has failed to address two fundamental policy questions: (1) do the water resources of the Monterey Peninsula have sufficient capacity to serve existing consumers and allow for uncontrolled growth, and (2) should Carmel support, for the benefit of all of us, restrictions on regional growth if such restrictions reduce the vulnerability of current water consumers to future water shortages?

One of the implicit assumptions behind Carmel's lawsuit is that there is sufficient water available to meet projected future demands; unfortunately, the available public information does not support such an assumption, and in any event the judiciary is not the appropriate forum for resolving the basic water problems facing the Monterey Peninsula.

I believe Carmel owes a responsibility to its existing water consumers; under no circumstances should new growth be encouraged at the expense of current residents, or through the wanton depletion of our water resources. Growth must be limited to the capacity of our water resources; allowing growth beyond our existing resources is foolish and inconsistent with sound government. After all, the voters approved the formation of the district to provide the integrated management of our water resources which we lacked in the 1976-77 drought, and which Carmel now seeks to judicially deny to the public.

I hope the city council will re-evaluate the direction of its water policy with a view towards the broader issues of its responsibility to act in the best interests of the whole community and the environment.

Dogs taking over?

Dear Editor:

Carmel-by-the Sea lived up to most of my expectations during a wonderful visit with friends recently. The natural beauty, your citizens' concern for cleanliness and preservation of the residential nature of your town, and the friendliness and hospitality of all I met were a real joy to me.

I had only one question for my friend. She said I should pose it to you. "Why have the citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea given over the beach to the dogs?"

Truly, I found it wearisome and bothersome to try to walk the beach with confidence. The odor from the exposed dog refuse kept reminding me to look before I stepped. So, for a short time one day, I walked head down, missing the ocean I could only hear. For the rest of my week's stay, I used Scenic Drive to walk, and wondered why the dogs were given such rights. I also wondered about the health issues stemming from the situation.

In my brief stay I noticed in your paper the debate about the ocean walk. I thought maybe people wouldn't need the walk, if the beach were more inviting. Surely the residents of Carmel-by-the-Sea are creative enough to reach a viable compromise which would satisfy the legitimate needs of dog owners and those who just want to drink in the beauty of your corner of the world without such distraction.

A million thanks to all I met for a vacation with you that I shall remember for a long time. May God continue to bless you, your family, and all the residents of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

A sight to behold

Dear Editor:

A wonderful thing happened on the Carmel Middle School campus recently that deserves some elaboration. More than 100 eighth-grade students volunteered to work on a number of projects to beautify their school. The setting was a Friday afternoon after the last school bell had rung. These dedicated young people stored their books in lockers and picked up shovels, rakes, hoes, paint brushes, etc. and headed off to the various work projects suggested by faculty and staff.

Twenty five chose to help prepare the dinner planned for all the workers later that evening in the school cafeteria. They, accompanied by five parent volunteers, soon turned the Home Ec Room into a beehive of activity and great smells.

Meanwhile, all over the campus, you could see little groups of students with a Mom, Dad or faculty member working right alongside. In the inner courtyard area, our assistant superintendent of schools was directing the tree and ivy trimming while the principal headed the bench and wall-painting committee. The vice principal was coordinating the flower planting and organizing the eighth-grade talent show for that evening.

The Carmel Middle School gardener (and flag football coach) had his team digging a drainage ditch and filling in holes on the lower multi-purpose field.

From the music room, sounds of the eighth-grade jazz band could be heard rehearsing for their part of the entertainment planned for later.

Many students who had finished early asked for another job as the spirit of cooperation and sense of accomplishment spread quickly. It was a sight to behold and treasure.

I feel especially proud of these young people for giving of themselves and their time in such a meaningful and productive way.

They also shared another valuable experience by working with their faculty and parents toward a common goal of identifying Carmel Middle School as a vital and viable extension of our community.

Congratulations to one and all!

In the mood

Dear Editor:

While Christmas shopping the other day, I was very happy to see the beautiful planting of pointsettias in the medians along Ocean Avenue. I called city hall to inquire who was responsible and was informed that this was a cooperative venture between the Carmel Business Association and the city of Carmel.

The pointsettias were purchased at the Secret Garden and planted by the city forestry crews.

Wow, what a way to get everyone in the Christmas mood.

Let city hall know if you like the decorations!

Magnanimous mayor

Dear Editor:

If it weren't for Mayor Eastwood, a Mission Ranch deed in any other name would probably never look or remain the same. Should Mr. Eastwood not do another good deed, above and beyond, for the people of Carmel and its environment — he has done enough!

Clint Eastwood's offer to purchase and pledge to preserve the ranch, as it now is, will afford all of us three of the most spectacular views anywhere (Point Lobos, the lagoon and the wetlands), from one magnanimous mayor.

Sincere thanks

Dear Editor:

The city of Carmel will never be as it once was, but a few remaining properties that still exist in Carmel are part of its history that a lot of residents, not to mention tourists are even aware of, for example the Mission Ranch.

I appreciate the rich and varied history of Carmel and the Monterey Peninsula and have a particular interest and fondness for the Mission Ranch, being that it was my grandmother (Isabel Leidig's) home when she was a young girl.

The beauty of this area is an integral part of its attraction and I know that I'm not alone in feeling that it's crucial that we save its history and its open spaces for future generations and for ecological reasons.

I would sincerely like to thank Mr. Eastwood, for myself, for my family and for my grandparents, who made it possible for me to live in one of California's most beautiful areas, by settling here in the first place.

Merry Christmas Mr. Eastwood, the city of Carmel and Carmel Heritage.

Another nail in coffin

Dear Editor:

The death knell is now sounding for the Republic of South Africa.

Congress has passed economic sanctions; IBM, Ford, General Motors and 18 to 20 other giant corporations are selling their holdings; the boards of trustees of several big universities have disinvested. Make no mistake about it, the American radical left has declared all-out economic war against South Africa.

While South Africa's racial problems provide the front, there is considerably more to it than that. Simultaneous with demands that South Africa end apartheid, this radical coalition further demands that South Africa legalize the communist-terrorist organization, the African National Congress (ANC).

It seemingly makes not the slightest difference that the ANC has long been known to be a communist terrorist organization. Not only have South African authorities warned us, but our own CIA (Central Intelligence Agency) as well as a United States' Senate Investigating committee revealed that the ANC is controlled by communists loyal to the Soviet Union.

What is going on in South Africa?

Well, like it or not, it looks suspiciously as though a radical coalition of American giant industries, the ruling boards of several big universities, the campus demonstrators, and, of course, the major American news media are creating the ideal situation for the communist-terrorists to eventually gain control of South Africa.

And that will be one more very deadly nail driven in the coffin that the communists intend to bury us in.

Strong support needed for $200,000 grant

By DAVID LELAND

THE California Coastal Conservancy has authorized a $200,000 grant to be applied to the Carmel Beach Restoration Project but without a strong show of unanimity from the Carmel City Council, the offer could be withdrawn.

In a letter to Carmel from Reed Holderman, coastal conservancy project coordinator, several stipulations were outlined in obtaining the state grant. Among these was a "strong expression of local" and political support for the proposed $750,000 beach restoration project.

While the general public has shown overwhelming approval for the project (a recent telephone poll conducted by the Carmel Pine Cone showed 69 percent approval), the city council has not been as cohesive in its views.

At its Nov. 4 meeting councilmembers barely (3-2), authorized Greg D'Ambrosio, director of administrative services, to go ahead with the application process for a state grant.

Evans, one of the "nay" votes at that meeting, spoke in a telephone interview with the Carmel Pine Cone last week.

"The jury is still out; I'm weighing the pros and cons," said Evans, who along with Councilwoman Elinor Laiolo opposed the grant.

Evans, however, said his opposition to moving forward with the grant application had more to do with following the correct procedure than actually opposing the project. The proposed beach restoration would provide a landscaped walkway with benches and access stairways along Scenic Road.

"I felt that in applying for a grant we were making a moral judgment," Evans said. Evans added that the correct way would have been to give approval to the beach project and then seek a grant, if that was a method of funding the city wished to pursue.

But this way was impossible. At that time there was a grant application deadline of Nov. 10 for 1986 distribution of money, a delay would have meant waiting another year to reapply for state funding.

A cautious man, Evans said before making his final decision regarding the beach project,

IF ALL goes well Scenic Road will have a walkway for strollers admiring Carmel Bay. The California Coastal Conservancy has allotted a $200,000 grant toward the beach restoration, with the only requirement being a show of unanimity among city council members regarding the project. (Holly McFarland photo.)

which will likely come before the council at its Jan. 6 meeting, he will review the city's recent report on capital outlays for the next five years.

"I'm not vehemently opposed to the beach walkway," he said. "(But) it needs to be viewed as one project in the next five years."

The capital improvement program lists projects which are required by the state as well as optional programs Carmel desires.

Evans did say, however, "If you have $200,000 handed to you, you have to look at it."

It would appear that while Evans may be leaning toward the proposed beach restoration, Laiolo remains unconvinced.

D'Ambrosio said the council would have to be at least 4-1 in favor of the restoration to convince the coastal conservancy of its conviction.

"I want to see what kind of strings are attached," Laiolo said. "That has a heavy impact on how I would vote on accepting the funds."

But according to D'Ambrosio, there are really no strings to speak of, except sticking to state regulations and guidelines.

The council received a list of assurances which the coastal conservancy requires. Among these are:

- The city must have funds available to meet its own share of the cost of the project. Currently the city plans to use funds from the general fund hostelry tax.

- The city must hold a lawful title to the property.

- The city will give the coastal conservancy access to all records, books, and other documents related to the grant.

- Work on the project will begin "within a reasonable time" after notification of the grant authorization.

- The city will comply with requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act.

- The city will comply with the conservancy concerning "special provisions of law, and program requirements." D'Ambrosio said the only thing the state would require would be adequate posting of signs, but these would be in accordance to the style of sign already posted in Carmel. In other words, the city will not have to post state signs.

But Laiolo still is not convinced.

"I'm not sure a 2 percent hostelry tax would cover the needs of the program," she said, referring to the 2 percent increase in the tax, from 8 to 10 percent about three years ago. "(Besides) the city of Carmel has never accepted in the past funding for a project."

Laiolo also said she has problems with the main aspect of the beach restoration — the walkway which will wind its way along Scenic Road.

"I'm very much in favor of the beach restoration," she said. "But I'm not sure the walkway is part of that relationship."

IN ITS letter to the city, the conservancy also outlined several other outstanding issues the city needs to comply with regarding the issuance of funds. The letter also states that money could be issued at either the conservancy's February or March meeting.

But, according to D'Ambrosio, there will be no problem in these areas, which include beach access, the proposed budget and parking.

The state is requiring a handicapped ramp to be incorporated into the project, which the city has already designed. The new "sand ramp" will be installed between Eighth and Ninth avenues and will be similar to an existing one at the foot of Ocean Avenue, D'Ambrosio said.

The state is also concerned about the number of parking places which will be available when the project is completed. D'Ambrosio said with the new design proposed by the beach task force, this should not present a problem.

In the preliminary drawings on the beach restoration only 66 of the original 146 parking spaces were left intact after the walkway was installed. But after further study, the beach task force found a way to have an additional 38 spaces available.

D'Ambrosio said this would satisfy the coastal commission. It also appears the city council leans toward acceptance of the latter plan.

Supervisors optimistic that master plan will pass test

By DAVID LELAND

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors Tuesday unanimously approved a resolution to adopt the Carmel Valley Master Plan. The board appears convinced that this plan will survive the strict scrutiny of the courts.

The next step for the 48-page document is to be reviewed by Monterey County Superior Court Judge Richard Silver, who has twice sent the plan back to the board for further review and changes.

The legal process could take until the end of January, according to J.R. Ramos, senior deputy county counsel, who represents the board on this matter. Ramos said the amount of time depends on the number of appearances of those disputing the plan and its findings before the judge.

Silver has twice rejected the plan given to him by the board, once in 1980 and again in 1984.

He first invalidated the plan because of its lack of an environmental impact report. At that time Silver also imposed a moratorium on discretionary use permits that would require environmental data.

Since that time the only building allowed in the valley has been on lots created before the moratorium or projects which do not require discretionary permits.

Silver again invalidated the plan four years later because of procedural mistakes made by the board in its review process.

Nevertheless, Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, who had promised voters to have the plan adopted by the board by the year's end, was ecstatic about its approval.

"It's been a long haul," she said, before formally moving to adopt the resolution. "(But) I think it has been well worth our efforts to put in this time in the last year and a half."

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors unanimously approved the Carmel Valley Master Plan this week, ending almost a decade of hearings. One of the goals the board feels it has reached is to keep the Carmel Valley in its natural "rustic" setting, such as this scene near White Rock. (Holly McFarland photo.)

In a telephone interview Wednesday Strasser Kauffman again expressed delight and optimism regarding the plan and its expected approval by Silver.

"I have high hopes that the judge will agree with us," she said. "This is a good working plan for the next 20 years."

Part of the reason for Strasser Kauffman's positive attitude, she said, is because of two guarantees built into the current plan which were not included in the previous ones sent to Silver. These are the subdivision allotment system and trigger mechanisms.

"The county will be forced to stop and take a second look if critical thresholds are reached in a certain area," she said, referring to the trigger mechanisms.

Trigger mechanisms are items such as air quality, traffic and water usage, which cannot be measured until the actual building in the valley begins and impacts are registered.

Strasser Kauffman said there will be public input on enforcement of the trigger mechanisms.

The subdivision allotment system limits the number of structures built each year and approves the permits on a point system. Those plans which are most ecologically sound receive the most points.

Strasser Kauffman added that the county, as stipulated in the plan, will monitor the progress of the valley every two years.

On a yearly basis, the number of houses built will be reviewed by the board by comparing the permits registered on the county's computer system to those built.

"All of that together gives us a fine plan," she said.

The board was obviously giddy and relieved to have the resolution finally approved after 21 months of both public and legal testimony. But at least one supervisor wanted the proceedings to be completely legal and cautioned the other members of the board.

"Any facetious comments will jeopardize the process," said Second District Supervisor Barbara Shipnuck.

Shipnuck referred to a time almost two years ago when Silver scolded the board for laughing when no one showed up for public testimony to correct flaws in the EIR.

But Strasser Kauffman said she is not worried about Silver rejecting the plan due to procedural foul-ups by the board.

"We've followed the letter of the law," she said, citing the number of public hearings by both the county planning commission and supervisors on the master plan.

BEFORE THE board adopted the resolution, however, it listened to Ramos make last-minute changes in the master plan.

These changes or "findings" were contained in a 64-page document and made last-minute clarifications.

Ramos further identified the status of the Odello property, which the supervisors excluded from the plan on Dec. 9. The Odellos had proposed building a 162-unit complex at the mouth of the valley. Their building plans are now governed by the Carmel Area Land Use Plan, the Local Coastal Plan and the Monterey Area Land Use Plan.

It was unclear, however, whether these 162 units would be subtracted from the total 20-year buildout of the valley or if this number would be subtracted after the Odellos received a building permit which will detail exactly how units will be built. The 162 units were the maximum number of structures which could be built on the Odello property.

But waiting to see what would happen with

Flanders Mansion sale runs into controversy

By DAVID LELAND

THE CITY last week began notifying public agencies statewide on the availability of the Flanders Mansion for park, recreational and open space purposes, an idea that has some residents fuming.

The resolution of notification to sell was approved unanimously at a special Carmel City Council meeting Thursday, Dec. 9, and is the first step in determining the fate of the estate, whose 1.43 acres of land are valued at about $600,000.

Currently one-half of the Flanders house, located inside Mission Trail Park just off Hatton Road, is leased by the Carmel Art Institute, a non-profit school operated by John Cunningham. The other half is rented as a private residence. Both parties pay $500 a month to the city.

The principal opponent of the latest move by the city to liquidate the property is the Lester Rowntree Memorial Arboretum Committee, a 16-member group of Carmel-area residents.

Committee members questioned the council on the advisability of the city destroying open land, which they feel will disappear permanently with the sale.

"The Flanders house sits like a little island," said Shell Ruskell, a Carmel resident and committee member. "Can you imagine a little area being sold in the middle of Golden Gate Park?"

The city contends that it cannot afford to initiate repairs on the mansion, which Mayor Clint Eastwood said would cost $350,000 to bring up to liveable state building codes.

But this carries little weight with residents who imagine life without the park-like atmosphere which currently abounds on the Flanders property.

"I'm dismayed to say the least," said Lillian Hazdovac, a committee member speaking before the council. "To give up this HISTORIC FLANDERS Mansion, on the outskirts of Carmel, has been deemed surplus property by the city. Various state and municipal public agencies have been notified, as required by law. The proposed sale of the land has some residents complaining that the adjacent arboretum will receive the short end of the deal because of its close proximity to the Flanders house.

island of land surrounded by park land is beyond my comprehension."

The arboretum committee also listed several other concerns regarding the sale of the property. These were:

- The driveway is shared by arboretum patrons and estate residents. If the mansion is sold the driveway will become part of the private property, which makes maneuvering difficult for arboretum patrons.

- There should be a complete separation of water lines and no utility lines should cross over the arboretum grounds.

- The committee does not favor the possible change in zoning from park lands to residential. If no public agency buys the property, the city will attempt to sell it to a private party.

Harriet Rowntree, arboretum committee chairperson, disagrees with both the idea of selling the land or rezoning it for residential living.

"It's nothing but trouble, anyone will tell you that," she said. "They are not thinking about long-term effects. We need wild lands as well as we need a beach."

Rowntree also questioned whether the city has followed the general plan, which states for the city to get rid of surplus land it must go before the planning commission and also conduct public hearings.

"They certainly haven't done that," she said.

But according to Doug Schmitz, city administrator, the planning commission previously found the disposition of the Flanders house to be in conformance with the general plan.

- The committee said it is disturbed that no "serious" attempts have been made to get public support for a compatible use for the mansion, such as a museum or an environmental study center.

- The committee also states that the view of the Carmel Mission Basilica and Point Lobos is not protected by the present survey.

IT SHOULD be noted the city is not blindly going into the real estate business with no eye toward future ramifications, a fear brought up at last week's city council meeting.

"What control will Carmel have over who buys it (Flanders Mansion)?" asked Hilton Bialek.

The answer is that if the property is rezoned, the resident will be subject to any building restrictions now in the municipal code. And, for public agencies, stipulations are clearly laid out in a letter from Carmel, which accompanies the notification of surplus land.

The letter states that:

- Access to the house and property would be via a driveway easement.

- The owner of the property would be permitted to construct a fence around the property boundaries subject to city codes.

- The city will grant utility easements beneath the driveway, but the cost of relocating the utilities would fall on the owner of the property.

- No further subdivision of the property would be permitted.

D'Ambrosio added that any money the city earns in the sale of the Flanders estate will be directed into a capital improvement contingency fund, which may be used for further land acquisition.

the Odellos was not acceptable to the board members.

"Either the Odellos are in or they're out," said First District Supervisor Marc Del Piero. "You can't have both." He added that what the Odellos do or don't do is of no concern to the board because the property is no longer in the plan.

After a brief discussion, the board unanimously approved subtracting the 162 units from the total buildout of the valley in the next 20 years.

The buildout through the next two decades stands at 1,310 new structures in the valley. This is broken down into 572 buildable lots of record on Dec. 9, 1986 and a maximum of 738 new lots to be created.

Annual tree giveaway set for Dec. 20

THE CITY of Carmel and the Forestry Commission once again invites residents to participate in its annual tree giveaway.

The giveaway will be held from 8 a.m. until all 1,500 tree seedlings are given away, Saturday, Dec. 20 at the Carmel Post Office parking lot, northeast corner of Dolores and Fifth. They will be given away on a first-come, first-served basis.

For more information contact City Forester Gary Kelly at 624-3543.

Pac Bell suggests repair option

Pacific Bell suggests that is customers choose an "inside wire" repair option as soon as possible in order to avoid the possibility of large, unexpected bills for repairs done after Jan. 1.

The three options available 1) paying Pacific Bell for repairs as needed; 2) paying another company for repairs as needed; or 3) signing up for a repair service available to all of Pac Bell's residential and small business customers for a low monthly charge.

Inside wire is what connects a customer's telephone(s) with the point where telephone company lines enter a home or business.

Pacific Bell made its announcement in response to a decision by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) which affects every telephone customer in the United States. Effective Jan. 1, 1987, the FCC has deregulated the installation and repair of inside wire.

This means that customers will have to pay to repair inside wire or fix it themselves. Local telephone companies such as Pacific Bell will no longer provide repairs at no direct charge to the customer.

Pacific Bell's residential customers can sign-up now for a repair plan which costs 50 cents per line, or they can pay for repairs as needed.

Between now and the end of the year, Pacific Bell's customers will receive a form in their bills which invites them to sign up for the monthly repair plan. Customers with questions about inside wire can also call this toll-free number: 1-800-843-1941.

Planners recommend low-flow shower heads in all hotels

By NANCY HILLS

CARMEL TOURISTS will get to sample the latest water technology if the Carmel City Council adopts the recommendations of the Carmel Planning Commission.

The commission recommended installation of low-flow shower heads by Aug. 31, 1987 in all Carmel hotels and inns, in addition to recommending the same rules for commercial property as residential as part of a permanent water use ordinance the council will review in January.

Included in the recommendations from the commission is a request for more intensive water conservation enforcement of existing water consumers in Carmel.

The recommendation was in response to complaints the commission heard at the meeting about obvious water waste by city residents and businesses.

If the council approves the ordinance, the permanent law will replace the urgency ordinance it approved for a year at its Dec. 1 meeting. Other than the recommended additions, the ordinance is the same as the one approved Dec. 1 in response to the city's getting close to exceeding its water allocation from the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

Both ordinances prohibit final permits for new construction, use permits or business licenses that would increase water use on site.

All non-emergency land use ordinances must be reviewed by the planning commission before consideration by the city council.

The commissioners listened to testimony from Carmel residents and attorneys, representing both commercial and residential property owners. Most speakers requested the same changes in the ordinance the commission forwarded to the council.

IF THE city council accepts the planning commission recommendations, commercial expansion will be governed by the same rule mandated by the urgency ordinance for residential remodeling.

Under those guidelines, existing residences can add more water fixtures — such as a new bathroom or sink — if the property is retrofitted below current water fixture standards.

Whatever "water units" are saved by the retrofitting can be applied to new fixtures. The city will use the water district's standards for assessing the "units" of water.

However, water use on the property cannot exceed its present consumption and water unit credits can only be used if the property is retrofitted below code standards. Carmel code currently requires the state standard of three-gallon-per-flush toilets and three-gallons-per-minute shower heads.

Additionally, water credits can only be on existing businesses or residences.

Installing low-flow showerheads in all Carmel hotels and motels was recommended by Councilman Bob Fischer and supported by the other councilmembers when the urgency ordinance was reviewed Dec. 1. Monterey County recently approved the same law for visitor accommodations in its sphere of influence.

JOE MCELDOWNEY, a commercial property owner waiting to get his building permits, told the commission "I think every property owner in the city of Carmel should be asked" to help keep water use down. He added that "if it's left to the 150 or so vacant lots in Carmel" to save water, it will never happen.

"I have a water management district permit that's over a year old," McEldowney said. "I don't feel it's fair for people like myself to have to bear the entire burden."

McEldowney and others cited seeing businesses washing down sidewalks, irrigating plants in the rain and residents watering their driveways or gravel paths as examples of water waste around the city.

McEldowney's theme that lots of record should be granted water to build, as the county has done, was echoed by other speakers.

Planning Director Diane White answered the comparisons of the city's ordinance to the county's recently approved ordinance that disallows subdivisions but reserves water for existing lots of record.

"Our situation is not like the County of Monterey. We were not given enough water (in the allocation) for lots of record and there is some question whether we have enough for existing use," White said.

Commissioner Olof Dahlstrand told the audience and some of the speakers that ideas such as rationing and stricter conservation measures should be addressed to the city council.

Alan Williams, a Carmel builder who has represented the city at water district board meetings, said the problem was not the city's but the water district's allocation system.

A moment of levity interrupted the meeting when Commissioner Ed Hicks said "We don't control the water. It's from heaven."

"Is that a motion?" Chairman Ken White asked in the silence that followed Hicks statement.

Supervisors grant delay for Pebble Beach gate

By DAVID LELAND

UNDER REPEATED protests from Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors Tuesday granted the Pebble Beach Co. a delay of up to three years to build an additional entrance gate into the Del Monte Forest.

The action required the county to amend both the Monterey County Land Use Plan and the use permit given to the Pebble Beach Co., which requires the company to install a new gate from Highway 68 into Del Monte Forest at Haul Road before the Spanish Bay project can begin operation.

The Spanish Bay project, a 270-room hotel complex, golf course and condominium resort, is about halfway to completion, according to Thomas Jamison, an attorney representing the Pebble Beach Co.

Strasser Kauffman expressed serious doubts whether the delay would benefit the residents of the forest or if Pebble Beach Co. would be monitored in its search for an alternative to the proposed gate at Haul Road.

"We're being asked to delay with no one to monitor and no one to report back (to the supervisors)," she said. "This is completely irresponsible."

Strasser Kauffman said the Pebble Beach Co. should have come before the board with a plan for a more viable option to the Haul Road gate.

But other supervisors disagreed, and Strasser Kauffman was the only vote opposing the amending of the Pebble Beach Co.'s permits.

But she was not alone, as was demonstrated in public testimony.

"We had a promise from the board three years ago that this gate would have to go in as a condition," said Bob Goodwin, a Pebble Beach resident.

Dirk van der Burch, president of the 1,500-member Del Monte Property Owners Association, also objected to the delay.

"We think the gate is needed now," he said. "The ink is hardly dry (on the Land Use Plan) and we're trying to change it."

Van der Burch also questioned the amount of input the Holman Highway Task Force has had in pushing for the delay of the gate, which would take about nine months to build.

"The Holman Highway Task Force is not a legislative body," he said. "It should not dictate policy."

The task force, an ad hoc committee composed of representatives of cities surrounding the Del Monte Forest, Community Hospital, governing agencies and the U.S. Army, has recommended to the board that the delay be granted until other options can be explored.

This lack of direction further piqued Strasser Kauffman.

"I object to a delay when there is no better solution," she said. "The public was promised — they were told the county would protect them."

But Jamison said the Pebble Beach Co. is merely trying to honor the residents' wishes. And if the board did not act immediately, the company would be forced to begin work on the gate as the permit requires.

"The Pebble Beach Co. does not want to get caught up in the never-never land of delay," he said.

The supervisors also asked for a bond to be posted with the county which will provide adequate funds for the construction of the gate in the event the Pebble Beach Co. sells its complex within the next three years.

But Strasser Kauffman was still not satisfied with this arrangement.

"Are you ready to post the bond today?" she asked Jamison.

But Jamison said the bond would not have to be posted until the Spanish Bay project is ready to begin operation.

Jamison estimated the cost of building the additional gate at about $400,000, which is what the bond would equal.

THE BOARD also heard public testimony supporting the delay.

"If the gate goes in on Highway 68, God help us," said Mary Bell Hughes, a Carmel Valley resident. "Highway 68 is the only artery on the peninsula that moves."

Part of the opposition to constructing a gate at Haul Road and Highway 68 has been the concern that people turning off the highway onto Haul Road would snarl traffic moving to and from Pacific Grove.

"They should keep the traffic in Pebble Beach," said Del Monte Park resident Martina Franklin. "It's for their benefit."

The Pebble Beach Co. may build the gate at any time within three years after Spanish Bay opens; it does not have to wait the entire three years, Jamison said.

"The Pebble Beach Co. does not desire to be let off the hook in building this gate," he said.

Freeway plans get positive response at hearing

By MAC McDONALD

THE CONSENSUS from the 150 or so at Dec. 11 Caltrans hearing on the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway was "let's get on with it." But not all were happy at what they were hearing.

"There's a heavy bias to the Hatton Canyon Alternative No. 1 (the freeway)," said Philip Foss, president of the High Meadows Homeowners Association No. 2. "The problems could have been solved many years ago if Caltrans had listened to us. The problems could be solved by widening Highway 1. Alternative No. 1 is completely unacceptable."

His comments were echoed later in the meeting by Roelof Wijbrandus who said the people at the hearing were "getting a one-sided story" favoring the multi-million dollar freeway plan from Caltrans.

The Hatton Canyon option would place Highway 1 on a new alignment east of the existing highway. The estimated $23 million project would extend the existing four-lane freeway from Highway 68 south to Carmel Valley Road and to the Carmel River where the Carmel River Bridge would be widened by 44 feet. A signalized "cloverleaf" type interchange would be built at the intersection of Carmel Valley Road, with a smaller one at Highway 1 and Carpenter Street. There would be no freeway on-ramp or off-ramp at Rio Road and Highway 1.

The majority of those attending the hearing at the Carmel Middle School gymnasium, however, favored the building of the long-delayed Hatton Canyon Freeway, referred to as Alternative 1-C by Caltrans.

"This thing has been kicked around and kicked around, let's quit kicking it around and get it built!" said former Carmel Mayor Barney Laiolo about the plan that been on the drawing boards for almost 30 years.

AFTER AN almost 90-minute presentation on the various alternatives and statistics of the proposed project by Caltrans' Ken Jones, project designer, the hearing was opened to the public. What followed was almost three hours of public testimony, most of it favoring the project.

THE PROPOSED Hatton Canyon Freeway looking northwest as envisioned in Caltrans' draft environmental impact statement (EIS).

"We need a Hatton Canyon Freeway at the earliest possible date and we support Alternative 1," said Fifth District Supervisor Karin Strasser Kauffman. "The county has recognized the need to expand the Highway 1 facilities near Carmel since 1945 and has strongly supported the Hatton Canyon alternative since 1957. It is time for the state to expedite this matter so that we can get on with solving this problem."

Strasser Kauffman said the freeway is needed for more than just convenience.

"The EIS (environmental impact statement) accurately points out that safety is now seriously impaired along this route," she said. "The existing accident rate for the two-lane portion of Highway 1, which is more than half the project length, is almost double the statewide average for similar-type facilities. Concern for public safety should be our major emphasis in considering the alternatives."

A "cloverleaf" type signalized interchange is proposed for the intersection of the freeway and Carmel Valley Road.

Other safety aspects Strasser Kauffman noted included numerous intersections and private accesses on Highway 1, lane reductions, signalizations, heavy daily, weekend and seasonal use, separation of high school from community, and response time for emergency services such as ambulances and fire trucks.

As for Alternative 4 — the second most popular option, although far behind Alternative 1, and calls for widening Highway 1 to four-lanes from Ocean Avenue to Rio Road — Strasser Kauffman said it would cause more problems.

"Widening the existing route to four lanes with the necessary channelizations would be equally disruptive aesthetically, especially for those near the highway."

Many of those favoring the widening option said they would like to save Hatton Canyon from development, do not want to see an "L.A.-type" freeway in their backyards, and were concerned about the loss of thousands of native Monterey Pines.

"The freeway won't solve our problems, it'll just change our problems," said Jim Toy, who decried the "rush-rush mentality" of freeway supporters.

Wijbrandus added that Caltrans' presentation was seriously lacking in giving those there a mental picture of what the agency is proposing, such as slides, aerial photographs and accurate models (the model on display was dated and did not include new design features). "The public doesn't get a visual image (of the freeway proposal)," he said.

Many, however, echoed comments made by Earl Moser, who has been long involved in a variety of Monterey Peninsula environmental issues.

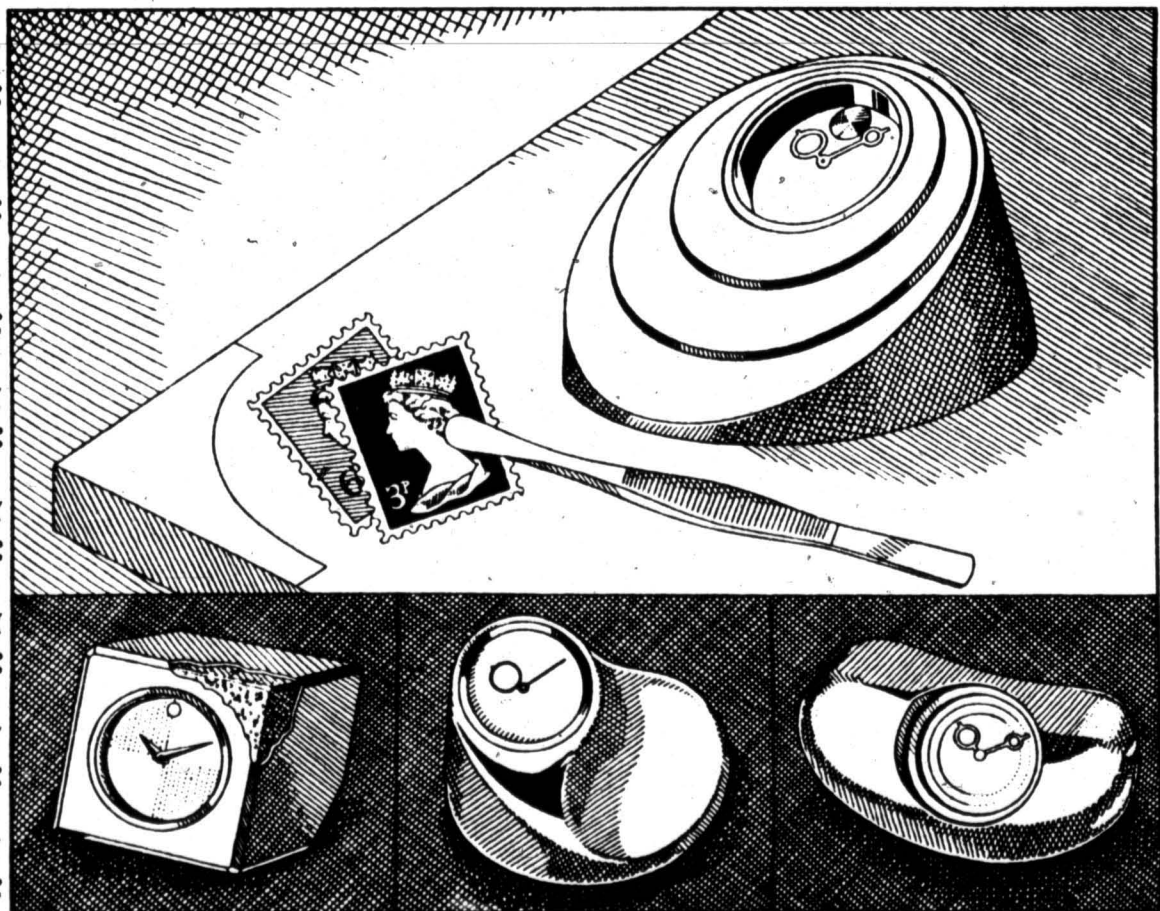

"This is a plan I feel will benefit all people of the Monterey Peninsula," said Moser, who said he was a member long ago of "Admiral Fisher's Carmel Citizen's Committee" that strongly opposed a highway in Hatton Canyon, but in recent years had "changed completely" and now support it. "I've been called a nature lover and an environmentalist, but in spite of that, I'm for the Hatton Canyon Freeway."

The 200-page EIS evaluates five freeway options, from widening to the freeway proposal, with adverse impacts and mitigation measures for each alternative. The two recommended options are the Hatton Canyon Freeway and a combination of the freeway and widening of Highway 1.

The EIS figures show that more than 30,000 vehicles a day use Highway 1, which makes it one of the most heavily-travelled two-lane highways in the state.

Planners reverse themselves, require EIR for seawall

By NANCY HILLS

A UNANIMOUS Carmel Planning Commission — reversing a decision it made in September — restored Dec. 10 a requirement for an environmental impact report on a controversial Carmel Beach private seawall near Pescadero Canyon.

The commissioners almost all stated they felt the EIR was necessary to satisfy the public after listening to testimony from concerned citizens, attorneys for and against, engineers, planning staff and seawall owner Craig McFarland, who opposed the EIR.

Also at the meeting, City Atty. Don Freeman told the commissioners if there are "substantial" questions about the effects of a project, commissioners must mandate an EIR.

In 1985, the previous planning commission and city council required an EIR, but McFarland appealed that decision this past September. The new commission voted 4-2 against requiring the EIR then reheard the appeal Dec. 10 after the public comment period on their decision was over. During that time, the planning department received letters and a petition in favor of an EIR.

The report, McFarland estimated at the last meeting, would cost approximately $12,000 and take about six months to complete.

The decision would not be appealed, Myron Etienne, McFarland's attorney, told The Carmel Pine Cone in a later interview.

"We will bow to the decision of the planning commission," Etienne said.

At the meeting, Chairman Ken White praised all those who testified on either side.

"I don't think I have ever sat on a public body and treated to better testimony in either side," said White, who voted in favor of the report in September. "I really sympathize with Mr. McFarland who has a long way to go with this thing. However, I support an EIR as I did last time."

Commissioners Olof Dahlstrand, Fred Keeble and Ed Hicks, all architects, voted against an EIR in September. However, after listening to the speakers, all three said they still questioned whether an EIR would accomplish anything, but felt public comment had raised enough questions and stirred enough controversy to mandate preparation of the report: Commissioner Bruce Roberts also had voted against mandating an EIR.

A major contention between McFarland and the city, which may still have to be worked out, is whether the EIR would involve only the foundation repairs or the fiberform wall as well.

The repairs involve burying 2- to 3-ton rocks — loose riprap — along 80 feet of the 220-foot wall's base to shore up a sand foundation.

Most of the testimony in favor of an EIR hinged on possible effects the rocks would have on wave action and cliff erosion, migration of the rock onto the beach, changes in Pescadero Creek outflow and concern about possible defects in the fiberform wall itself.

Though the largest section of the wall rests on bedrock and would not be a part of the repairs, portions of the planning staff report and public comment revolved around whether the current structure was sound and working properly.

Questions raised by the staff report and David Shonman, a coastal biologist, about the fiberform wall included some rusting of interior steel-reinforcing bars and improper drainage behind the wall.

In rebuttal to the comments, the designer of the wall, Carl Hooper of Bestor Engineers, said the rusting bars were not the ones holding the wall in place. The drainage, he said, probably was through drain pipes beneath the sand and no one had checked those.

Hooper added that the rock would not migrate seaward, as previously stated, but would move toward the Pescadero Canyon direction if it moved at all.

A 30-DAY public comment period following the September decision produced one petition, circulated by William Pentoney, with 28 names and letters in favor of an EIR. Pentoney also spoke at the planning commission meeting.

Other speakers in favor of an EIR were architect Joyce Stevens, who listed 10 reasons to require one; Carmel resident Howard Nieman, who read California Environmental Quality Act requirements for an EIR; and attorney and longtime Carmel resident Francis Lloyd, who wrote letters in support of the report and spoke at the meeting.

The consultant firm EIP in San Francisco had been settled upon by the city and McFarland to do the EIR and Etienne said he would talk to the city planning director about retaining them.

EIP is the same firm that is producing portions of the EIR on the proposed San Clemente Dam, though a different division will handle the McFarland seawall.

The wall's permit was "piggybacked" on to the city's California Coastal Commission emergency permit to make repairs to the beach after the severe storms of 1983. The city granted a permit for the structure as a garden wall permit.

A condition of the Coastal Commission permit was the structure would be the subject of a complete geotechnical and aesthetic study.

When the study was done, it was discovered that the northernmost section was on sand rather than bedrock.

Meals on Wheels needs volunteers

DRIVERS AND other volunteers are desperately needed to deliver 200 meals daily to shut-ins and the handicapped on the peninsula for Meals on Wheels.

According to Chuck Poland, a Carmel volunteer, 200 homes are served with three meals five days a week from Carmel Valley to Marina, but 22 volunteer drivers are needed to deliver those meals.

"We were seven drivers short the other day," said Poland, who has been pressed into service so often that he's driving almost daily now. "It means a lot to these people. You thank your lucky stars when you leave."

Each shut-in is delivered a breakfast, one cold meal (usually sandwich, salad and juice), and one hot meal. He added that volunteers are also needed to make sandwiches and salads at the Meals on Wheels kitchen in New Monterey.

Almost all of the help is from volunteers, Poland said, so often the agency ends up short-handed. If you would like to volunteer to help out contact Meals on Wheels at 375-4454.

Meals on Wheels is a non-profit organization now going on its 15th year.

THE SEAWALL was built by McFarland in 1984 to protect his unoccupied home that was threatened by the severe winter storms of 1982 and 1983.

McFarland told the commission he built the fiberform wall, which he said has cost him $170,000, on the recommendation of the former planning department staff, the California Coastal Commission staff and Bestor Engineers, the firm that designed the structure.

McFarland told the commission that after the 1983 storms, he had "wanted to construct a similar wall as the city. But Bestor Engineers, the Coastal Commission staff and the city staff at the time said that would use too much of the beach."

Instead, he said, they recommended a type of wall frequently used on the East Coast. The wall, consisting of fiberglass bags filled with cement, would conform to the shape of the bluff.

News notes:

Children can call Santa directly through 'Santaline'

CHILDREN CAN now call Santa Claus directly through "Santaline" and also help out a charity by dialing a special telephone number.

Through Dec. 31 children who call 976-2233 will get an original two-minute tale from Santa. A portion of each telephone call will be donated to California Special Olympics and Special Olympics International. The funds raised will help support opportunities for the mentally retarded athletes to participate in sports competitions in California and at the 1987 International Summer Olympics to be held in South Bend, Ind.

Charge for dialing in the 408 area code is $2 (plus toll, if any) per call. Children are requested to obtain parental consent before calling.

All stories relayed on the Santaline, sponsored by Teleline Inc., portray an easy-to-understand moral such as sharing, how to enjoy friends, be kind to animals, etc. Santaline calls are handled daily, 24 hours a day.

Goodwill visits Mid Carmel Valley

JUST IN time for year-end giving of surplus but saleable household goods, Goodwill Industries' special rotating "Attended Donation Station" trailer will visit the Carmel Mid Valley Shopping Center from now through Thursday, Jan. 8.

The familiar Goodwill trailer will be open every day, including weekends, from 10 a.m. till 1 p.m. and 1:30 to 5 p.m. with an attendant to help unload and to provide receipts that will be useful when tax time comes around.

Especially welcome are donations of furniture, working small appliances, clothing, china and glassware, knick-knacks, tools sporting goods, TV sets (working), and other household items.

Residents of Carmel Valley who have donations to make that will not fit into their car to take to the Attended Donation Station, can call Goodwill at 646-8567 to arrange for a Goodwill truck pickup.

Cachagua area plan needs participation by area residents

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors has appointed a Citizens Advisory Committee to help in developing an area plan for Cachagua, but citizen input is needed.

Public meetings of the committee are held regularly in Cachagua. Residents interested in participating are asked to sign a mailing list at the meetings or by writing directly to:

Cachagua Area Plan Mailing List
Monterey County Planning Department
PO Box 1208
Salinas, CA 93902.

Public participation is encouraged at these meetings to insure that property owners and residents have their concerns reflected in the Cachagua Area Plan that is to be developed, according to Joel Panzer, county planner.

For more information contact Panzer at 422-9018.

Carmel Fire Dept. accepting toys for the needy

THE CARMEL Fire Department annual drive to raise food and toys for needy families on the Monterey Peninsula this Christmas continues.

The annual drive began Nov. 28 and will continue until Christmas Eve. The fire department will be accepting donations in the form of canned and non-perishable foods, workable toys, money and other appropriate gifts. The donated items will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Donations may be dropped off between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at Carmel Fire Station on Sixth Street between San Carlos and Mission.

For more information contact Mitch Kastros at 624-1718.

Backyard burning season set for Jan. 1 to May 31

THE BACKYARD burning season will begin on Jan. 1, 1987 and is scheduled to continue through May 31. This is a special burning season for residences in rural areas who have yard prunings, dry leaves and vegetation to dispose of.

Although the burn permits for this season are issued by the local fire jurisdictions, the actual regulations and guidelines for backyard burning are determined and governed by the Monterey Bay Unified Air Pollution Control District. The fire department adds on fire safety regulations.

To clarify the relationship between the resident, the fire department and the Monterey Bay Unified Air Pollution Control District, the following information will apply:

Residents: Whether you have one-quarter acre or 10, some residents have the need to dispose of yard debris and some do not. There are portions of the county which are considered rural and portions which are not. Residents in Carmel Valley and Carmel Highlands are in a rural portion of the county where burning is allowed. These residents may take advantage of burn season.

Backyard burning is a right and it cannot be taken for granted. If misused, it can be taken away. In rural areas there are special "agricultural" burn permits issued to residents who make their livelihood off the land — crops, livestock, etc. These permits allow burning year around on permissive burn days. They are far and few between, but smoke can be seen after the backyard burn season is over.

The fire department: It deals with fire. There are good fires and bad fires. The department's concern with backyard burning lies with maintaining the controlled burn. It is also the hope of the fire departments that the resident will be removing excess vegetation and debris from their yard prior to it becoming a fire hazard during the dry, brush fire season of the year.

Backyard burn permits are issued by the fire jurisdictions, which gives the fire department an opportunity to add on to the air pollution regulations, those relating to the control of fire. And when someone sees smoke, they call the fire department. False alarms are increased this time of the year. The fire department must maintain a daily roster of residents burning to track actual backyard burning and reduce false alarms.

Monterey Bay Unified Air Pollution Control District: This agency is responsible for establishing and enforcing burn regulations. Their priority concern is the quality of the air we breathe. This concern involves many factors, including a daily determination of air quality and atmospheric conditions present which affect the properties of smoke being put into the air.

There are good days to burn and bad days to burn. A good day is when atmospheric conditions or the intensity of the inversion layer and wind speed allow the smoke to rise out of the range of the atmosphere that is considered our breathing air. If these conditions are not right, the smoke will be held down on the valley floor. This is determined daily throughout the state for each particular jurisdiction and burn days are regulated accordingly. Good days are called "permissive burn days" and bad days are called "negative burn days."

IT IS further regulated that even a permissive burn day only so much burning can be allowed in certain jurisdictions categorized as smoke sensitive areas.

Carmel Valley is a smoke sensitive area due to geological nature and size of the valley, which contribute to conditions that hold smoke down into the valley floor. This regulation is controlled by limited the number of residents burning on any given day.

In Carmel Valley, Mid Carmel Valley, the mouth of the valley and Carmel Highlands, burning is limited to 25 burns per jurisdiction per day. In the past years, this regulation has only affected the Carmel Valley Fire District, in that on a few Saturdays, more than 25 residents requested to burn. Backyard burn season is five months long and, if you pick up your permit early in the season, you should have plenty of opportunity to complete desired burning.

The Burn Permit: The permit has several types of information on it. The resident completes one portion, which gives name, address and phone number of where the burning will take place. The resident is asked to sign the permit and retain a copy which has a permit number on it.

The permit states a toll-free number for the resident to call to find out the daily burn status. This number plays a recording which begins about 7 each morning. It is not possible for the fire department or the air pollution control district to tell you "next Wednesday" will be a burn day.

Each fire jurisdiction has specific hours when burning is allowed. Carmel Highlands, C.S.A. No.43 — Rio Road Fire Station and the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Department allow burning from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., seven days a week on permissive burn days. The Carmel Valley Fire Department allows burning from 8 a.m. until noon, Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and no burning is allowed on Sundays.

The permit will give you the phone number of your fire department so you can notify them of your desire to burn on a permissive burn day. Remember, 25 burns are allowed in each fire jurisdiction each day. When you notify the fire department, you will be asked to give your permit number, name and address of the burn.

WHAT TO burn: Dry materials only. You are asked to wait a minimum of 72 hours after one-quarter inch of rainfall or more, and NO green material.

How to Burn: No large piles, maximum size is 4 square feet. You should have a 10-foot clearance (bare ground) around your pile. Your burn pile must be a minimum of 50 feet from a structure. You must have a water source at the burn site and an adult must be in attendance at all times until the fire is out.

Flammable liquids are not allowed to be used as an ignition source.

Burn permits will be available at your local fire department on Jan. 1, 1987 (except Carmel Valley Fire Department — Jan. 2, 1987). Permits are free of charge and good through May 31, 1987. Residents are encouraged to obtain a permit early on in the burn season and plan their burning throughout the five-month season which allows plenty of opportunity to clean up the unwanted fire hazards and debris.

For questions relating to Backyard Burning contact: Monterey Bay Unified Air Pollution Control District, 1-443-1135; Carmel Valley Fire Department, 659-2021; Mid Carmel Valley Fire Department, 624-5907; Rio Road Fire Station, 624-4511; Carmel Highlands Fire Department, 624-2374.

Yuletide poems

IN HONOR of the season, we are sharing some holiday writings from the students in Mrs. Mary Ann George's fifth-grade class. Happy holidays from the staff and students of Carmel River School.

Snowflakes

Snowflakes fall just Like a feather. Snowflakes
Freeze just like the weather.
When snowflakes come they Bring fun and out comes the Sun and the snowflakes,
Leave. The snow is gone,

the fun
Is gone, the frost is gone, and Spring is on.

A Breakfast Treat

When you eat a breakfast
Spring-up, you think you're eating candy on Christmas. Every Christmas Morning I have this treat, puffed up pancakes,

That's mostly it, but there's powdered sugar,

There's lemon, and even strawberries on this side,

So if you're hungry for the best Christmas treat

Of all, try Spring-Ups, they make you spring!

Candles

Colorful, warm and bright
Lighting up the room
On Christmas night.

All colors red, blue, green
Like faint stars in the night.
Light one, light another
Makes each on a different color.

When you're ready to go to bed,
Turn them off one by one.
Blue, yellow, green, and red Light them again next Christmas Night.

Bells and Seasons

Ringing in warm
Houses. Round shiny
Silver bells. Talking to
The white snow covered Ground. Gently, in a Whisper, telling all the People in the world
Christmas time is here.

Then, as quickly as They came, the bells go
Silent, the white covered Ground turns brown,
New life appears, birds
Chirp, bears growl,
Trees turn green. Spring
Comes again.

Dreydl

This spinning delight, dancing
Merrily around.
The shin, the hay, the nun, and

Stockings

There it swings over the stone fireplace
Red with white fur,
Trimmed with green holly
And a chubby brown reindeer
With bells on his harness
Standing there watching
Santa has come and filled it with treats;
Candy canes, walnuts,
And a small teddy bear peeking out.
Round eyes, big ears, and a cute little nose.
Not making a peep, waiting patiently
For a child to come and play with them.

The boy wakes up,
Jumps out of bed.

Runs to his stocking,
Takes everything out,
And throws the stocking in the corner,
Flat, skinny, and forgotten,
Until next Christmas.

DOLLARS & SENSE

By Marshall Bloom & Anthony Piazza

Earn more

NANCY CALLAHAN, a local accountant and ex-IRS mavin, recently informed a group of concerned Carmelites that the message of the new Tax Reform Act was "Earn More."

Speaking at the Woman's Club, along with fellow accountants Ron Kabat and Marilyn Kennedy, Nancy outlined the taxing history of the past half century and reiterated the "earn more" suggestion as the most valuable way to make sense of what Congress and President Reagan have now, in fact, wrought. In effect, if we understood her intent, the only way to beat the tax man now is to earn more money. Shelters and write-offs are kaput.

For some time now investors have recognized something like this was coming down the pike. The "earn more" mentality, plus lower interest rates, has brought investing in income vehicles, especially the high-yielding common stock of public utilities, back into popularity. Unfortunately 'The 'earn more' mentality, plus lower interest rates, has brought investing in income vehicles, especially the high-yielding common stock of public utilities, back into popularity.'

for some, there's a perception that it's too late to "earn more" through utilities, that the prices have gone too high. But our valuation work continues to support purchase of higher quality electrics.

Which quality electrics look particularly attractive at current prices? We have no qualms about highlighting our current Buy and Buy for Income selections which include: Boston Edison, Consolidated Edison, Union Electric and Public Service Enterprise Group.

You may think the yields on these recommended items are a tad low. But remember: the track record of these utilities shows that they generally raise their dividends every year or so. Should the past be prologue to future behavior, you will see an increasing yield on your investment.

Which is where we started at the Carmel Woman's Club one recent evening with Nancy Callahan and her peers. "Earn More," she told us. Remember, this gal used to work for the IRS. Talk about good sense from an insider!

CHALK MARKS

From behind the president's gavel

By JOYCE OLCESE
Parent Faculty Club President

IF ONE asked the parents, students and staff for a definition to describe Carmel Middle School it would be impossible for all of them to come up with the same description. CMS means different things to different people.

From behind my gavel, I see Middle School as a place of learning and growing; sixth-graders enter as youngsters and exit a confident young ladies and gentlemen eager to go on to high school. The transformation takes a lot of hard work on the part of everyone and does not happen overnight.

The Parent Faculty Club is a very important part of CMS and they work closely with Karl Pallastrini, principal, to provide not only some extras but the essentials, too. Board members act as grade representatives who work with the students to plan their activities. The traditional sixth-grade potluck in September, hosted by the PFC, is their first social introduction to CMS and their new classmates. In November the seventh-grade hosted a dance in honor of their guests visiting from Barcelona. The eighth-graders just completed their first annual Cleanup-Spruceup Afternoon. More than 100 students straightened books in the library, gardened, pruned, swept, painted and sanded benches and, with the help of parents, cooked their own dinner. On top of all that — they also had a talent show.

The PFC parents are highly visible. You can see them in action chaperoning dances, helping at sports events, answering the phones and stuffing envelopes in the office and generally making themselves useful wherever and whenever they are needed. You will see parents on the buses acting as chaperones going to games, musical events and field trips. CMS parents are all chefs extraordinaire. Out of their kitchens come an endless supply of cookies and cakes for any and all occasions. Right along with providing bodies and hours, the provide financial aid to the library, office, elective departments, all of the academic departments and also to grounds and school improvements.

The PFC, staff, custodians, maintenance people, gardeners and above all, our librarian Millicent Lawitzke, who has developed an extraordinary library for all to enjoy, are all working toward the same goal; a student who has enjoyed CMS, who has had good experiences, who is academically ready to move on and who feels good about himself — confident and self-assured.

Carmel Fire Dept. accepting toys for the needy

THE CARMEL Fire Department annual drive to raise food and toys for needy families on the Monterey Peninsula this Christmas continues.

The annual drive began Nov. 28 and will continue until Christmas Eve. The fire department will be accepting donations in the form of canned and non-perishable foods, workable toys, money and other appropriate gifts. The donated items will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Donations may be dropped off between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at Carmel Fire Station on Sixth Street between San Carlos and Mission.

For more information contact Mitch Kastros at 624-1718.

HANGING UP THE STOCKING

From Italy comes the legend from which we are supposed to get the time-honored custom of hanging up the Christmas stocking.

Good old St. Nicholas of Padua used to throw long knitted purses tied at both ends, into the open windows of the very poor people. These purses were made of yarn not unlike a footless stocking. Finally it became the custom of the people to hang them outside of their window on the night before Christmas, so that St. Nicholas could put a gift into them as he passed by. By and by, when coin became scarce, toys were put in for the children, and useful presents for grown people.

In the North country where it was rather chilly at Christmas time, the purses were hung on the mantelpiece, and it was believed that the good old saint would come down the chimney and fill them. When these purses were out of use, stockings were substituted and have been used since.

FIREHOUSE WILL COST $3000 MORE

Building the firehouse will cost Carmel approximately $3,000 more than the original $12,000 bond issue, it was reported to the city council Wednesday evening by Councilman Bernard Rowntree, who some months ago was authorized to buy materials and hire labor in connection with the project. Reason for the increase, as explained by the councilman: the rise in price of materials since the building was started, the collapse of a portion of the second story, which ran up the cost from $500 to $700, scarcity of skilled labor on WPA rolls at the time the building was started, requiring Carmel to pay more for labor than originally anticipated.

Mr. Rowntree reported that he is making every effort to keep expenses at a rigid minimum, so far as extraneous details are concerned. Where the structural or wearing qualities of the building are concerned, he regards it as poor economy to pinch the pennies.

After discussing the fact that schools all over are using IBM cards now for keeping personnel and students' individual records, the Carmel school board last night scrutinized some of the district's own cards, full of the familiar little holes, then heard Superintendent Stuart Mitchell say:

"Someone was telling me about a school principal in Southern California who accidentally stepped on his IBM card with his golf shoes on and gave himself a raise in pay."

TOUR BUS PARKING

The seemingly endless hunt for a tour bus loading and parking zoned has arrived at still another location — this one at Junipero beside Carmel Plaza.

Although the Council was scheduled to vote on the first reading of an ordinance designating Junipero, east side, between Fourth and Sixth streets as the tour bus zone, complaints by two business operators there and police chief Bill Ellis did away with that concept. Hazards and the lack of spaces (about seven in two blocks) were cited as reasons for rejecting this location.

Scheduled for first reading at the January meeting will be an ordinance designating approximately nine tour bus parking spaces along the east wall of Carmel Plaza, and in front of the telephone building in the next block.

COUNTY ACTS TO HALT SILTATION PROBLEMS

Monterey County now has an erosion control ordinance designed to prevent just the kind of slide which recently deposited tons of siltation from Merv Griffin's vineyard in Hitchcock Canyon on neighbors' property in Carmel Valley.

The new measure was adopted by the Board of Supervisors Dec. 8 and takes effect Jan. 8, 1982. It's the result of two years of work by the county building inspector's office.

The ordinance requires submission and approval of an erosion control plan before the county issues a building, grading, or land clearing permit for areas prone to erosion.

Wine & Food Society dines at Pine Inn

MEMBERS AND invited guests (from far and near) came to sip and sup at The Pine Inn in Carmel for the annual Christmas dinner of the International Wine and Food Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis A. LeVett, dinner chairpersons for the Monterey Peninsula Chapter, were drawn to the warm ambiance of the Carmel Inn for this holiday occasion.

During the champagne reception (Andre Freslier Vouvay Brut), the LeVetts treated the ears of these connoisseurs with harp music. White gloved waiters served trays of turkey petit fours, seafood cheese puffs, crab quiche, mushroom escargot and fresh fruit.

For the 117th chapter dinner, the appetizer was a superb stuffed quail with cabernet and chardonnay sauce, poached quail eggs with Beluga caviar (1976 Chateau Lagune Haut-Medoc and 1976 Chateau Lascombes Margaux). For this menu sommelier Gilbert F. (Jeff) Craig, Jr. chose to serve French wines. Dennis LeVett jested, "When we have a dinner for a lot of French people we will serve only California wines."

Le Diner extraordinaire began with vegetable consommé making a dramatic entrance in acorn squash bowls. Followed by poached salmon beurre blanc wrapped in romaine lettuce leaves, which brought oohs and aahs from everyone. (accompanied by a 1983 Joseph Drouhin Meursault) Mandarin cranberry sorbet cleansed the palate before 50th Anniversary Commemorative Magnums of 1982 Saint Emilion Grand Cru was poured as the broiled veal ribeye in ginger cream sauce with shiitake mushrooms was set in place. Meanwhile, Carolers, Ltd. filled the air with holiday songs, courtesy of Dennis and Karen LeVett.

In true continental fashion Limestone salad with walnuts, Greek cheese and cinnamon sliced per preceeded the dessert — Pine Inn Cone on laced meringue cookie in a bed of raspberry sauce and white chocolate mousse.

Enough, you think. Yes, but not all. petit fours, cafe filtre and a gold-boxed truffle — with Ficklin Port. What could be better?

PG INNS TREAT CHRISTMAS VISITORS

The second annual Pacific Grove Heritage Society Christmas at the Inns was a whale-of-a-success with the 400 tickets selling out far in advance.

Heritage Society hostesses greeted visitors at the door of each of the six participating inns and the inns furnished Victorian refreshments to one and all.

The latest B & B, The Pacific Grove Inn, was built in 1904 by Frank Buck. It is in the Queen Anne Style with colonial revival detailing. It was converted into an attractive inn by Mr. and Mrs. Loran List and David Spence last summer.

Mr. Buck was on the 1923 committee with W.R. Holman to push through what is now the Holman Highway. He helped introduce electric street lighting to promote tourism, and supported Hopkins Marine Station.

Green Gables, built in 1888 by William Lucy, was converted in the 1970s. The Centrella Hotel and Martine Inn were both built in 1899 and the other two inns open for the tour were Old St. Angela's Inn (1910) and Gosby House, constructed by J.F. Gosbey (a tax error forever changed the spelling), now owned by the Roger Posts, who also own Green Gables Inn. All of the inns are simply dripping with Victorian charm.

Co-chairs for the PG Heritage Society were Judy Proud and Marilyn Arioto. They were assisted by Ken Seavey of the PG Art Center and Marion Martine was inn liaison.

Hostesses were Muriel Pyburn, Bruna Weiland, Lori Rolander, Lynne Harter, Mila Wilson, Erma Dinkel, Ruth King, Lyn Bovey, Connie Callas, Jean Anton, and Jeanne McCombs. Bringing the holiday cheer with music were John

JESTERS JOLLY-IT-UP AT THE C.V. COUNTRY CLUB

The Carmel Valley Country Club welcomed the Jesters (of the M.P. Museum of Art) for their Annual Christmas Jolly Masqued Party. Joviality and jollity prevailed. The music of Do Do Wah Street Irregulars brought dancers to the floor almost as soon as guests arrived.

Santa Claus dropped everything at the North Pole to pay a visit and check on how many Jesters had been naughty and how many had been nice, but he wouldn't tell anyone. Instead Bonding is not a new procedure. In this, the era of holistic health, physical fitness, and "be the best you can be" mentality, bonding has come of age.

Bonding is a relatively simple procedure. A composite resin or porcelain material is added directly to the roughened enamel surface of the tooth. Usually no anesthesia is required.

Spirit of Christmas

WEATHER IT is spoken in English, French, Spanish or Italian the meaning of Christmas remains the same. There is something about the Christmas traditions that seem to transcend the barriers of language. It must be that the traditions that embody understanding, kindness, mercy and love need no spoken language.

Surely these are the true gifts of Christmas. However, you may have some difficulty in convincing a child of the same. It is my belief that to a child's ears the sounds of "gnarly skateboard wheels" equate roughly to the sound of "sleigh bells." For a symphony of the same, I would like to invite young and old alike to come to the Carmel Youth Center's Christmas Carols Night, 6 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22. The whole community is invited to come sing along. We will tour Carmel and return at 7 p.m. for free apple cider and cookies. All music and lyrics will be available at the youth center at no cost. Everyone should dress warmly and carry flashlights.

I hope you were one of the lucky ones who got to taste some of the Carmel Youth Center's Christmas tree lighting party at the Carmel Plaza Dec. 5. Our Mobile Youth Center served free cider and fresh hot popcorn for the event. Dave Rich and his crew made some of the best cider I've ever tasted! Special thanks to: Patrick Vasterella, Jeremy Miller, Julian Bernstein, Sonny Smith, Chris Forlizzo and Chris Hartzell for helping to make it all happen. These young people are great!

"Gotcha" your thing? I mean, do you like the "Gotcha" look? Well, Classic Clothing Store, between Fifth and Sixth on Lincoln, is having a drawing for a 3-foot square "Gotcha" banner. The banner is on display here at the youth center for your perusal. If you're interest, see Betty Crutchfield at Classic Clothing.

Itchy feet? Just got to move? Well try the Carmel Youth Center Baton Twirlers class! Desiree Suhr and Tina Buffo instruct the use of baton every Saturday afternoon from 4 to 5 p.m. Like to learn about the martial arts? Sensei Carl Quigg offers karate class every Tuesday and Thursday night from 7

The Carmel Youth Center offers a variety of entertainment for students in the Carmel Unified School District. We have: pool, ping-pong foosball, video games, big screen TV and first-run movies. Our snack bar offers some of the finest cuisine in Carmel. Our hot dogs are the best on the planet! During the Christmas holiday the youth center will be open from 12 to 8 p.m. We will be closed Dec. 25 & 26 and Jan. 1.

Regular hours are 3 to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 3 to 11 p.m. Friday, and noon to 11 p.m. Saturday. Membership to the youth center is $5 a year. For information call 624-3285.

Children's Christmas films shown

The Pacific Grove Public Library will present two short Christmas films for children, Morris' Disappearing Bag and The Clown of God. Children ages 2 to 8 are invited to attend the free, 30-minute program.

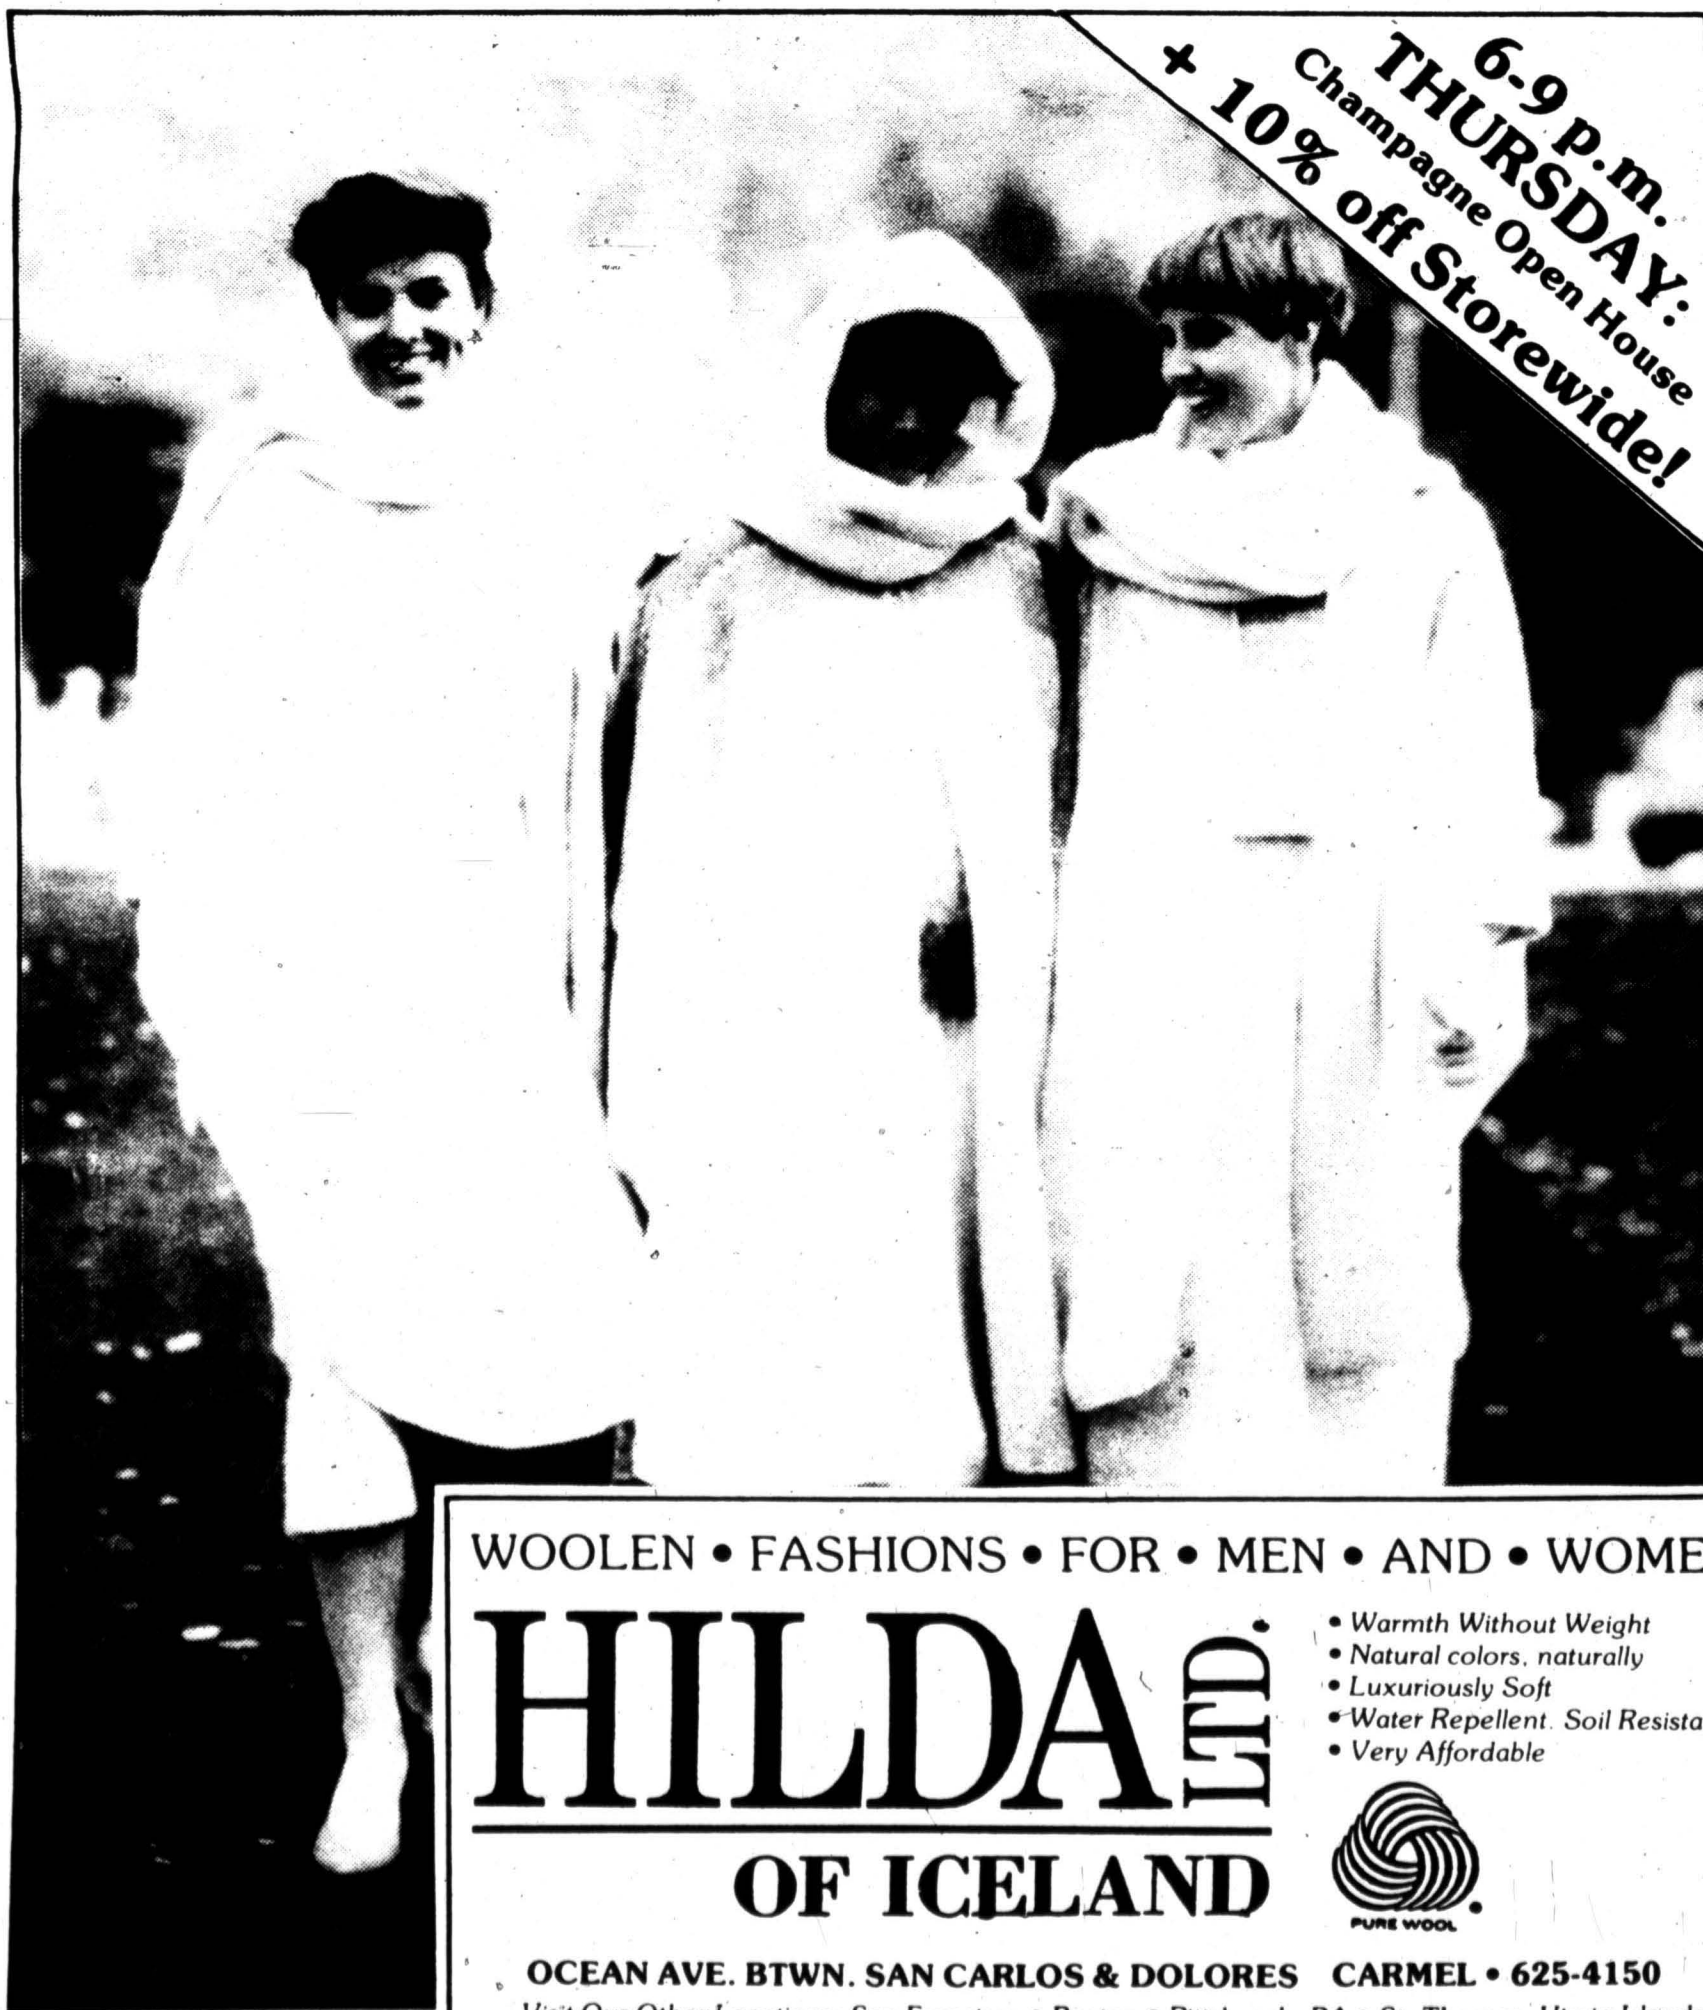

Show time is 10:30 a.m. Thursday, Dec. 18. The library is at 550 Central Ave., Pacific Grove. For more information, call 373-0603.

CARMEL VOICE

By Sam Salerno

Out and about

TITO FUENTES, former San Francisco Giants great, in town for a game of golf with Lee Cypress, Monte Avis, and Dee Reding at Rancho Canada. Tito, a 12 handicapper, now sells insurance in Redwood City. As far as his golf, he hits the ball long and is meticulous on the course and measures every yard before he hits his approach shot. He and Cypress teamed against Reding and Avis.

WHITE SILENCE WANTS TO BE HEARD

Now that Eastwood has purchased the Mission Ranch, do you think he'll allow the Carmel-based band, White Silence to perform there? I've talked to them and they'll donate all revenues to the Carmel Youth Fund with only soft drinks being sold! How's that for a proposition?

BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY

Seen at Rosine's in downtown Monterey during the lunch hours were Restaurants Central mogul Ted Balestreri and Dave Armanasco, who is running a successful public relations firm and has Ted and Bert Cutino as clients. Both were impressed with what the Culcasis have done to brighten up Alvarado Street and to increase traffic there. Food is very good and those two gentlemen, who are gourmets, can attest to that fact!

OFF TO SWITZERLAND

Dee Merrit, weekend "disc jockey" at KRML will spend New Year's Eve in Switzerland. Some people have all the fun! She'll be coming down to live in Carmel in March of '87 and will be an afternoon regular on KRML spinning the wax, to use an old phrase! While we're touring the radio stations, ran into Jack Parr of KNRY and he's handling "talk" chores there for Claude Barnett, manager. Joe Thompson, manager of KBOQ, scampering around Carmel for copy from radio clients. He's without a double, one of the most knowledgeable broadcasters around. He has never wavered in his work habits. He eats and sleeps radio! His boss is Don Curran, formerly with KGO in San Francisco. Roger Powers, former owner of KOCN in Pacific Grove, will "voice" Spalding radio reports on KRML, 1410 on your radio dial. He's freelancing these days. Nick Souza, radio teacher and now in TV and radio production, off to Kapalua on the island of Maui for the holidays.

PARK CITY POTPOURRI

Letter in from Bob Logefiel who left Carmel with wife Betty a couple of seasons back to live in Park City, Utah. He played in the Jeremy Ranch Showdown where he ran into John Geersten of Monterey Peninsula Country Club who teamed with Mike Reid (touring pro) in that event. "Logie," was we called him, is also a great skier, anticipating the upcoming ski season. If you're heading that way, say hello!

BELABORING AN ISSUE

Having been a member of the media for many years, I am appalled at the press (mostly TV and radio) and their treatment of the Iran-Contra issue. How much of this cockamamie verbal tirade can we endure? It goes on and on and never seems to end regardless of the channel or station. Why doesn't the media report it and then go on to other more important matters? If they goofed, they goofed...let's get on with it! It's called continuity. At times they try to "milk a subject dry," rehashing a subject over and over again until it becomes insanity! Onward and upward!

CONTROLLING THEIR DESTINY

I don't know about you, but I'm getting tired of listening and reading about the NFL players and teams who keep referring to their "destiny" in interviews and stories. They (coaches and players) keep talking about controlling their own destiny regarding their status. Can't they use another line such as "if we win next week, we'll go all the way"? I wonder what some of these players were doing during speech classes and writing classes in college? Mental giants, no doubt!

BIG TIPPER...WEIRD

How would you like to be the waiter who received this for a tip at the Village Corner Restaurant the other night: 73 cents...a paper clip...one 22 cent stamp...a pill (could have been an upper or downer for all they know)...and a toothpick. Do you think the tourists are becoming a little strange? See you next week!

Free shuttle revises Sunday hours

The free shuttle serving downtown Monterey, Fisherman's Wharf, Cannery Row and the Monterey Bay Aquarium, has cut back its Sunday hours of operation.

The free shuttle now runs on Sundays from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. It continues to run on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Bookmobile closes for repairs

The Bookmobile of the Monterey County Library will be out of service from Monday, Dec. 22 through Jan. 3. In addition to some routine maintenance, the Bookmobile will be painted with a new design which features Monterey County scenery. The artwork was produced by Carmel Valley watercolorist Ron Bean.

The County Library Bookmobile has been in operation for more than 30 years. It currently provides free library services to 24 different neighborhoods throughout the county. For information on the stop nearest you, call 424-3244.

IS "FALCULA" A DIRTY WORD?

Although Carmel is famous as a gathering place for artists, writers, and other assorted intelligentsia, there still may be a few words missing from their verbose vocabularies.

Where are they, other than in the dictionary? In BALDERDASH, of course. This is the hilarious new game by TSR that makes you laugh, and lie a lot, learn...

Would you believe 2500 zany words you probably never heard before? They're all here, and the player who can bluff the best definition wins enough points to move to the finish line first.

This is the game you can't lose when you need a gift that is sure to please. And, the $26.95 price includes Game Gallery's beautiful holiday wrappings.

Come enjoy 1001 ways to bring a smile to everyone on your last-minute Christmas list... just for fun.

P.S. "Falcula" means a sharp pointed claw.

AUCTION GALLERIES UNLIMITED

CRAIG LEE HEMPHILL

You now have a choice. A new auction gallery has opened up on the Monterey Peninsula! Auction Galleries Unlimited, at 571 Lighthouse Ave., in Monterey has opened its doors to be of service to you.

We at Auction Galleries Unlimited want to change the means by which you sell your precious possessions. We are a bonded and licensed auction company with a combined experience of over 40 years in the auction business.

MR. CRAIG LEE HEMPHILL was first introduced to the Peninsula as auctioneer and manager of the Auction Studio in 1972. Learning from the ground up, Craig gained valuable knowledge and experience in all phases of the auction business. His extensive background in economics and marketing enabled him to expand the scope of a small family auction business. Specifically, Craig expanded the research library; tripled the preferred customer mailing list; developed an inhouse advertising agency covering the media, developed new display techniques for better marketing of your antiques and collectables.

TOM JOHNSON, Manager of Auction Galleries Unlimited, offers 12 years of experience in the auction industry. Promotions from Warehouseman to Manager of the Friday Sale and then to Manager of the entire Saturday Sale demanded not only familiarity with antiques and art, but also experience in research, display, cataloguing of the sale, and customer relations. Tom's interest in and knowledge of art, particularly in limited edition prints, assures you an open and honest appraisal for your special item.

GEORGE STONE comes to Auction Galleries Unlimited with over 30 years in the auction business, as a Truck Service Moving specialist. George who will take special interest in the transportation of your valuables. He and his assistant will personally and professionally wrap and pack everything that you want to go to auction.

Auction Galleries Unlimited is a professional auction corporation dedicated to giving advice and assistance to individuals, executors, and trustees in the disposition of single items, collections, and estates.

Our services include the liquidation of estates — from the furnishings to the real estate. The same service applies to businesses, whether large or small. We also have on-site sales. Whether your needs are a "Tent Sale" complete with catering, or a "Price Tag Sale", Auction Galleries Unlimited has the complete auction plan for you.

Our newly remodeled gallery offers an elegant setting in which to display and auction your valuables. Auctions are held once a month and run 2 days in length.

HOW IT WORKS:

If you are selling, our sliding scale consignment rates keep interest high for both buyer and seller. The higher the hammer price, the lower the commission percentage! On a per item basis, the percentages are 25% for $100 and under; 20% for $101 to $500; 15% for $501 to $1500, and 10% for $1501 and above.

As a seller, your benefits include extensive advertising, insurance, truck service, storage, prompt payment, and more money returned to you. As an added service, Craig Hemphill, your auctioneer, will confer with you in the privacy of YOUR OWN HOME OR BUSINESS and give you a FREE written estimate of your valuables. Consignments are by appt. only. In this manner we can give you our individual attention. We at Auction Galleries Unlimited are ready and willing to be of service to you. Call today for further information.

CARMEL REALTORS MAKE ANNUAL AWARDS

The Carmel Board of Realtors has bestowed awards to five of its members for distinguished achievements and sales during 1986.

Outgoing board President Barbara Simmons, of Fouratt/Simmons was given the Achievement Award for distinguished service to the real estate profession during the two years of her office. The award was presented by Ben J. Heinrich, who succeeds Simmons as president. He is with Heinrich, Dusenbury & Associates.

The board also gave Dwight Bennett of Ailing House Pest Control a Certificate of Appreciation for his services to the board and its members.

The awards were presented at the Carmel Board of Realtors' annual installation dinner held Saturday, Dec. 13 at Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

Attending the ceremony was Jack Paulson of San Jose, president-elect of the California Association of Realtors.

Paulson installed Heinrich as president; Hi Hennings of The Mitchell Group as vice president; and Robert Russell of Herma Smith Curtis Real Estate as treasurer.

Directors of the Carmel Board of Realtors for 1987 are: Stacey Souders Golding, Candice Gregory, Rodney Guilfoil, Annis Lembo, Joy Murray, Tom Redfern, Barbara Simmons, and Les Zielinski. Virginia E. Williams is executive vice-president of the board.

PHILIP GRAY APPOINTED BLOOD PROGRAM COORDINATOR

Philip S. Gray has been appointed Blood Program Coordinator for The Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. His procedure is to alleviate the planning of future blood drives at many locations within the Monterey and Carmel areas to increase blood donations for use in the hospital.

Gray said his potential outlook is to capture the resourcefulness of the area's populace into the formulation of a number of organizations to plan certain days of the year devoted to their own blood donation day.

A prime example would be to follow the Realtors Blood Drive that will be held at the hospital 8:30 to 6:30 p.m.

1986 SAFE Driver Competition winners at Laguna Seca Raceway included Tiffany Clayton of Carmel Valley and Jim Duerkson of Seaside. Clayton attends Carmel High School and Duerkson attends Monterey High and works part-time for the Carmel Pine Cone. The winners took home $1,000 college scholarships and $300 driving scholarship from the Jim Russell British School of Motor Racing, beating out 18 other finalists.

Thursday, Dec. 18. With a Physicians/Nurses Day, Law Enforcement Officers Day, Fraternal Organizations Day, Automobile Dealers Day, etc.

The potential is tremendous, he said, and in a short period of time blood shortage would be a thing of the past.

Any inquiries should be directed to Gray at 625-4814 or 624-2977. A reminder, blood donors are desperately needed now.

Salinas Family Emergency Shelter between December 1986 and December 1987. Sheriff Bud Cook is chairperson for the drive for the second year. Cook raised more than 1,000 bears for 1985.

The Salinas Family Emergency Shelter provides safe, clean quarters, counseling, and help getting lives back together of battered women and their children, rape victims, and homeless families. The 35-bed facility location is confidential to protect the battered victims.

"I would like to see the county community get behind this worthwhile effort to bring joy and comfort to the 800 children who will be sheltered through the year," said Cook as he urged people during the holiday season to consider sharing their good fortune by donating any size teddy bear for children who are in crisis and trauma through no fault of their own.

Shelter Manager Teresa Ramirez reports that the bears have made a difference in the comfort and safety level of children and mothers during 1986. All children and mothers received bears due to the generosity of the community.

Bears can be dropped off at the sheriff's offices at 142 West Alisal St., Salinas, 1200 Aguajito Road (courthouse), Monterey and 1001 Division St. (courthouse), in King City, or the public libraries in Carmel Valley, Prunedale or Soledad.

More than 1,200 people will use the shelter in 1987; it has been in operation for 10 years. Primary fund sources are the United Way, County of Monterey, City of Salinas and the U.S. Army. Other funds come from the Cities of Gonzales, Carmel, Marina and Salinas, and donations from community people.

Pat Ready, executive director for Domestic Crisis Services, offers an alternative to delivering the bears. Those who would like the shelter to purchase teddy bears for them can mail a donation of $10 to P.O. Box 3584, Salinas, CA. 93912. Mark your check "Teddy Bears."

WINNERS OF SAFE DRIVER COMPETITION ANNOUNCED

The Independent Insurance Agents and Brokers of the Monterey Peninsula have announced the winners of their 1986 Monterey Peninsula Safe Driver Competition.

Jim Duerksen, 17, who lives in Seaside and attends Monterey High School, and Tiffany Clayton, 16, a Carmel High School Student whose home is in Carmel Valley are this year's winners. Each will receive a $1,000 scholarship to the college of their choice, and a $300 scholarship to the Jim Russell British School of Motor Racing. (Duerksen also works for The Carmel Pine Cone.)

Awards were also given to the next four male and female finishers. They are as follows:

Male: Sharif Omer, Jeffery Knepp, Scott Snibbe, Peter Wangoe II, (Also the winner of last year's competition.)

Female: Tawni Neikirk-Pisto, Cherdeen Pettas, Maxine Stewart, Romy Fineroff.

The competition was a test of safe-driving skills for high school students with valid driver's licenses or instruction permits. Twenty finalists were selected after completing a written examination and a test of behind-the-wheel driving skills throughout the streets on the Monterey Peninsula. Also, an obstacle course test, held at Laguna Seca Raceway.

DECEMBER MEETING NARFE CHAPTER 579

The theme of this year's Monday Dec. 22 meeting of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees will be early California. Father Junipero Serra will join the group and help celebrate the season with tales and song.

The program will be preceded by a varied buffet consisting of favorite dishes. The luncheon and program is scheduled for 12 noon, Dec. 22, at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center, Lighthouse Avenue and Dickman.

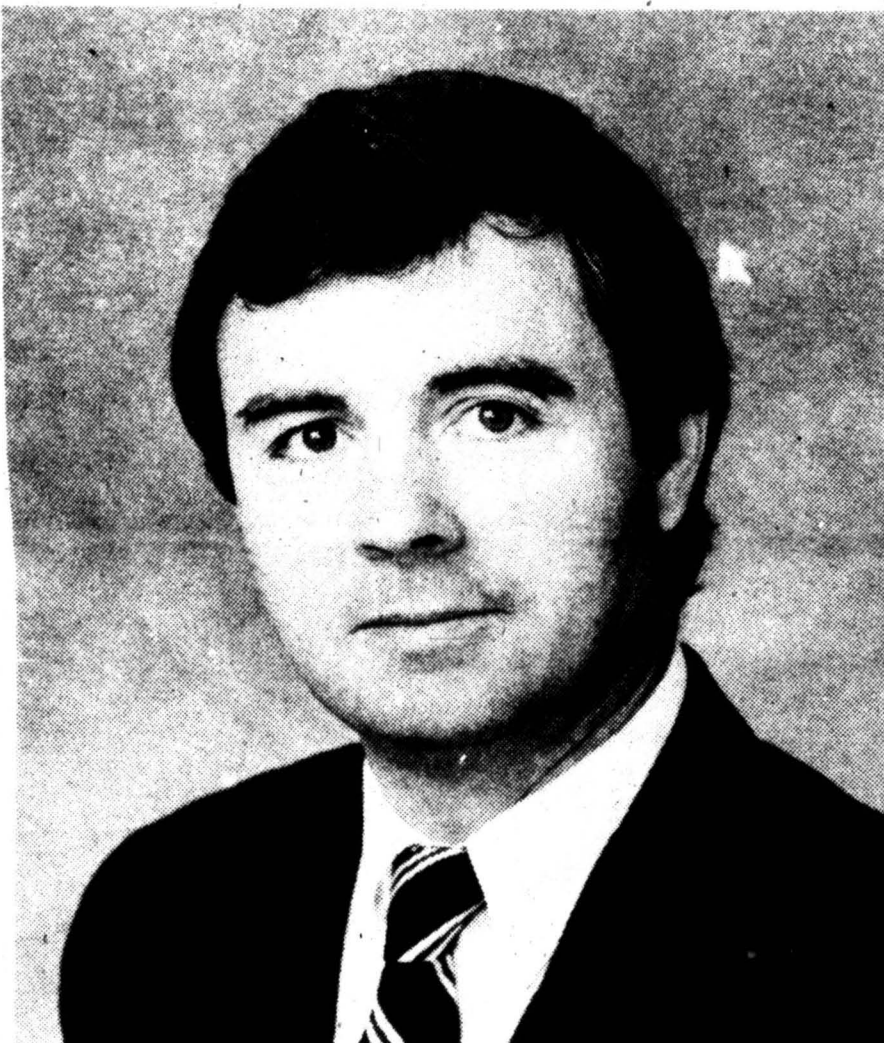

CHILDREN OF FAMILY RESOURCE CENTER TO RECEIVE DONATED GIFTS AT MONTEREY PLAZA HOTEL

On Monday, Dec. 22, approximately 100 children from Family Resource Centers in Seaside and Salinas will be taken in the Monterey Plaza Hotel on Cannery Row at 11 a.m. to receive the gifts donated during the month-long "Spirit of Christmas" Toy Drive. The toy drive was sponsored by Security Pacific National Bank, the Monterey Jaycees, KOCN-Ocean 105 FM and the Monterey Plaza Hotel.

Santa Claus will be arriving on a Monterey fire truck to greet the children, who range in age from infant to 15 years. Local dignitaries will be passing out donated gifts.

Until Dec. 22, toy outlets for donations will be at the Security Pacific branches in Monterey, Pacific Grove, Carmel, Salinas and Santa Cruz; KOCN-Ocean 105 FM in the American Tin Cannery; and Monterey Plaza Hotel on Cannery Row.

The Family Resource Center of Monterey County is a United Way agency, which offers comprehensive child abuse prevention with emergency and planned child care services 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. During the month of December, they work with approximately 150 children in Monterey County. The surplus gifts will be given to the Salvation Army.

BEN J. HEINRICH of Heinrich, Dusenberry & Associates was recently elected the president of the Carmel Board of Realtors. He succeeds Barbara Simmons.

CARMEL POLICE REPORT

BY OFFICER GREG LINDSEY

Keeping the holidays safe

THE HOLIDAY season is a special time for celebrating and sharing with families and friends. Unfortunately, statistics show that people are particularly vulnerable to burglary, theft and other crimes, as well as drug and alcohol-related traffic accidents during the holiday season.

This time of year can be memorable if you become involved in crime prevention programs and the promotion of safety in the city of Carmel-by-the-Sea. Remember, preventing crime is a year-round job, but it is especially important during the holidays.

How safe is your home from burglary this holiday season? You can avoid becoming a victim by taking the time to lock doors and windows before you leave the house. Never display Christmas gifts where they can be seen from a window or doorway. Most people feel safe in a large crowd, but crowds are where pickpockets do their best work. If you carry a handbag, carry the flap or clasp towards you. Wallets should be kept in a front or inside pocket. When shopping remember to lock packages in the trunk of your car, and park in well-lit areas. Be aware of those around you and don't hesitate to report suspicious persons or activities to the police.

At home use an automatic timer to turn on lights and a radio or TV when no one is home. To stop sliding glass doors from being lifted out of their track, insert a couple of sheet metal screws through the track and into the frame. Use deadbolt locks on exterior doors, and trim shrubs around doors and windows so a burglar does not have a hiding place in which to work.

Make this holiday season a happy, memorable occasion by taking the time to implement a few, simple precautions to protect yourself and your loved ones from crime. If you drink, don't drive. Take a cab, have a sober friend drive you home, or use the "designated driver" plan. Don't allow this Christmas season to be marred by setting yourself up as a crime victim or risking the tragedy of a drug or alcohol-related traffic accident.

FOR THOSE of you who have not yet noticed, the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department has recently implemented a motorcycle patrol officer. We anticipate that this program will prove to be of great value to the community in a number of areas. A motorcycle provides greater mobility and a quicker response time to calls for assistance, is of great value in education, particularly among the younger members of the community, and can be utilized in a number of specialized applications. Among these are the more efficient control of double-parked trucks, (an area of great concern), patrolling along Scenic Road, particularly in traffic enforcement and pedestrian safety, and, in general, prevention of crimes before they occur. A motorcycle is not as readily visible as a marked police car, and we hope that this will assist us in our continuing efforts to stop crime before it occurs.

If you wish more information on holiday safety or any of the programs previously mentioned, please call the Police Department at 624-6403.

From all the members of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Police Department, our best wishes for a safe and happy holiday season.

BUSINESS BEAT

By Nancy Hills

The end

I HOPE.

The first ice cream parlor since Swensen's closed last year finally opened its doors last Saturday. Rather quietly, I might add, after all the hoopla that surrounded the ice cream question in Carmel.

Mike and Jeannie Lajigian have transformed their candy store, Chocolate Dreams, on Ocean between Mission and San Carlos into a real, live ice cream parlor. Seats, mirrored walls, scoops, toppings, waffle cones and everthing. Quite a change from the candy store. One thing hasn't changed, however. Chocolate Dreams manager Sally Hesteren will still be in charge of the store. And the candies will still be there.

This is no ordinary ice cream parlor. Of course, this is Carmel. What did you expect?

Lajigian has gelato, an Italian gourmet ice cream, and I do mean ice cream. It's not a sherbert or sugared ice — it's real, honest-to-goodness ice cream, according to Lajigian and my taste buds, which willingly sacrificed themselves in the line of duty.

Gelato, Lajigian explained, is thicker than regular ice cream simply because it has no air — American ice cream can be 50 percent air. (An ingredient which is usually tasteless — unless it's Los Angeles atmosphere. Smog 'n Nuts, ummmm.)

If you doubt me, go try one of the twenty Classico flavors Chocolate Dreams is offering. Or better yet try them all. You can choose from such taste sensations as strawberry, fresh banana walnut, Joseph St. Almond, dark chocolate, chocolate hazelnut and just good old vanilla bean. Classico makes everthing with fresh ingredients — fruits included — and really pours it on, according to Lajigian. Strawberry, for instance, is 40 percent fresh strawberries.

Frozen yogurt and sorbets are also available at the shop. ^

There are cones, of course, but the parlor also offers cups, sundaes, banana splits, sodas and floats. Anything made with water — regular, non-fizzy water — such as malted milk shakes will have to wait until Carmel's water problem is solved.

— And toppings — strawberry, blueberry, raspberry, amaretto cookie chips, dark chocolate bits, macadamia nuts and almonds. The fruits will be fresh when in season, Lajigian assured me.

In the back, there are still candies and those chocolates that were the mainstay of the business before ice cream became the big topic of conversation in Carmel. They even have their regular Christmas candies for the season.

Lajigian said the parlor will be open seven days a week, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. most of the year and 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. in the the summer months and the holiday seasons.

WRONG AGAIN

Marina Lange was on the wrong end of a Biz Beat Mistake last week. I said she had moved her shop, Stitches, from Seventh between Lincoln and Monte Verde to Heather Glen Court on Mission between Seventh and Eighth. I jumped the gun. She's moving in January, hopefully by Jan. 5, and is still open at the Seventh Avenue location.

Another mistake was printing she wanted a smaller space for her studio where she does dressmaking, alterations and sells fabric, notions and accessories. What she wants is better parking facilities — Sunset Center is right on the next corner — and a better designed space for her business.

BRIGHTSIDE CLOSING?

It's not over yet, but if Brightside ACT in Carmel isn't purchased by Dec. 31, it will close, according to administrator George Staub.

The alcohol and drug rehabilitation center was purchased in 1984 by St. Benedict's Health Systems and has been doing well, Staub said. However, St. Benedict's is disbanding its health care system with the exception of its headquarters and main hospital in Ogden, Utah.

Centers in Coeur d'Alene and Missula, Mont., have been closed and the Salt Lake and Gooding, Idaho, facilities are on the auction block as is the 10-year-old Brightside ACT.

St. Benedict's is disbanding the facilities, Staub said, because there are only 22 nuns left in the order.

Younger nuns used to take care of older nuns, he explained but the youngest nun now is 55 years old and the order had to make provisions for their retirement.

There are no novices, Staub added, because of the Roman Catholic Church's conservative policies toward women.

Also, the health system expanded in three years, which was too fast, he said.

If not sold, the 22-bed Carmel facility would take its last patient on Jan. 2, he said, and will close on Feb. 1. Arrangements with another hospital will be made for patients in the two-year follow-up program that is a part of the treatment.

If the rehabilitation center closes, 15 staff members will be looking for new positions.

SUNDIAL SOLD

Bub Allen is now the former owner of the Sundial Lodge on Monte Verde between Ocean and Seventh.

On Dec. 12, the 19-room hotel became the property of Zenuemon Sugita, according to one of the negotiators, Sandy Freschi.

Involved in getting the deal finished, Freschi said, were real estate broker Haji Higuschi of Higuschi & Company in San Francisco; Tim Allen, Bud Allen's son, of Bock Realty; and Freschi himself, who brought the parties together. Sugita is from Japan and owns property in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Freschi added that the Sundial will still offer its "excellent service and European charm." Management and staff will remain the same and no changes are planned for the immediate future, he said.

BLACKBURN & BLACKBURN SURFACES

They're definitely not out of business, I've found out, but the location on Junipero has closed after 12 years due to a rent increase, according to Charles "Hal" Blackburn of Blackburn & Blackburn stamp and coin shop.

Carmel attorney John Menken contacted me and said he is handling the buying and selling for Blackburn — no gold and silver quotes. Blackburn said people wishing to contact him can write to P.O. Box 7246 or 7401, Carmel, 93921.

Blackburn said he's looking for a new space in the mouth of the valley and hopes to reopen sometime in January or February.

PRESS RELEASES, PRESS RELEASES

• Lumenex Lighting, Inc. has been founded to provide Central Coast businesses with a complete line of commercial lighting products and staff expertise in energy-efficient, cost-effective lighting, President Tony Lucido announced. Lucido is a Carmel resident and the new company is headquartered in Carmel Rancho Center.

Lucido was in energy management during five of his eight years with Pacific Gas & Electric. He has opened offices and warehouses in Monterey and Salinas to serve commercial and industrial accounts ranging in size from retail shops to large corporations, as well as architects and contractors involved with lighting.

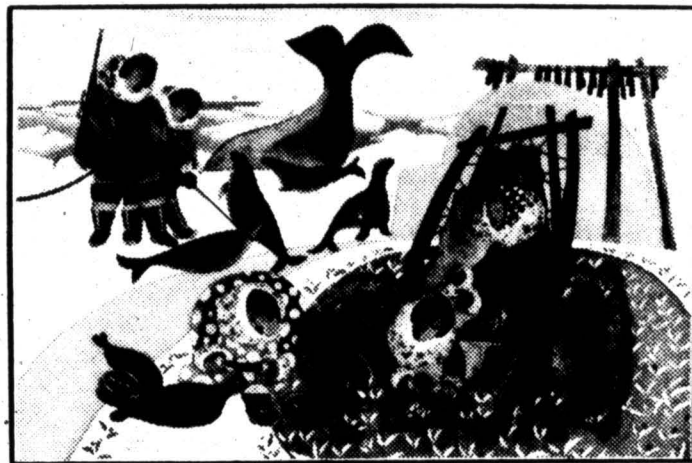

"Advanced lighting products can cut a business' lighting power bill by up to 80 percent," Lucido writes. "It takes a highly trained professional to determine the correct application. That's where our staff comes in. We'll obtain the right lights at the lowest possible prices, cut customer's operating costs significantly, and give them the look they want."

Alaska

by Huong

The Barnyard, Carmel is delighted to invite you to view the internationally touring art exhibit "Alaska".

Sponsored by the state of Alaska and World Explorer Cruises, the exhibit features the works of Vietnamese-born artist Huong, as a gesture of invitation to enjoy the beauty and cultural diversity of Alaska.

Huong specializes in watercolor and intaglio, depicting scenes of Eskimo life and culture, as well as landscapes, in a style that is at once contemporary and timeless.

OBITUARIES

Harold G. Smith

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea, followed by scattering of ashes at sea, for Harold G. Smith, a Carmel resident for 24 years, who died Nov. 21 at Community Hospital. He was 82.

Born, Oct. 17, 1904 in Rock Island, Ill., he worked in management positions with the J.C. Penney Co. for 35 years, and retired in 1963 when he moved to Carmel.

He belonged to numerous community and civic organizations including the Masonic Lodge in Tacoma, Wash.

Survivors include his wife, Katherine; a daughter, Lee Woods of Alamo; a son, Joe of Alameda; and five grandchildren.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula.

Ed Reynolds

Graveside services took place

Christmas Eve services at local churches

All Saints' Episcopal Church, Ninth and Dolores in Carmel, will celebrate Christmas Eve with a Family Communion and Christmas Story at 5:30 p.m., a musical prelude at 10:30 p.m. and a Festival Eucharist with the choir at 11 p.m. On Christmas Day, a Holy Eucharist (Rite 1) with hymns and carols will take place at 10 a.m.

The Choir of the First Baptist Church of Carmel, located on Carmel Valley Road at Schulte Road, will present Joy to the World by John Peterson at 7:30 p.m. Directed by Evelyn Kadlec, the narrator is the Rev. Andy Strachan, with sopranos Kathy Murland and Debbie Lambert, and tenor Ron Blair.

An 11 p.m. candlelight service will take place at Carmel Valley Community Chapel, on the corner of Paso Hondo Road and Village Drive in Carmel Valley. The Choir will sing a cantata by Colkey, When the Christ Child Came, and there will be a service of carols, readings and prayers.

At the Carmel Presbyterian

Dec. 2 at El Carmelo Cemetery for Ed Reynolds of Carmel Valley, who died Nov. 29 at Community Hospital. He was 96.

Born Nov. 25, 1890 in Sandy Hook, Ky., he was a grain farmer in Gibson City, Ill., until he retired in 1974. He was a resident of Carmel Valley for five years.

Survivors include a daughter, Fairy Bennett of Carmel, a son, Elmo of Virginia Beach, Va.; six grandchildren, six great-grandchildren, and a great-great-grandson.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Alliance on Aging.

Shari Martin

Cremation took place at the Little Chapel by-the-Sea for Shari Irene Martin, an artist and resident of Pebble Beach, who died Dec. 2 at her home. She was 60.

Born May 6, 1926 in Denver, she moved to Pebble Beach a year ago from Lake

Church, on Ocean and Junipero in Carmel, a family service will take place at 6 p.m., followed by a candlelight and carol service at 9 and 11 p.m.

A candlelight and musical service will begin at 7 p.m. at St. Philip's Lutheran Church, Carmel Valley Road and Schulte Road in Carmel Valley, and the Rev. Anton Prange will preach the sermon.

The Monterey Peninsula Unitarian Church, Aguajito Road at the intersection of Highway 1 and Highway 68, Monterey, will present a family service at 7:30 p.m., followed by a service at 11:30 p.m. of candlelighting and meditation with the Revs. Fred and Margaret Keip.

A ceremony of candlelighting will take place at 7 p.m. at the Unity Center For Creative Living at 731 Munras Ave., Monterey.

At the Church of the Wayfarer, Lincoln and Seventh in Carmel, a family service will take place at 7 p.m. featuring the Children's and Youth Choruses, and a candlelight service will take place at 11 p.m. The Rev. Charles Anker will preach the sermon The Wraps Come Off at both services.

'My Sister Eileen' screened

Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Janet Blair star in My Sister Eileen, the Thursday, Dec. 18 offering of Brown Bag Cinema in Carmel.

The film follows two Ohio girls who hit the Big Apple. Russell earned her first Oscar nomination for this 1942 film.

Admission is free to Brown Bag Cinema. Everyone is invited to "brown bag" lunch at noon on the terrace outside the Chapman Room of Sunset Center, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel. At 1 p.m., all move to Sunset Theater for the film. For details, call 624-3996.

'World's Largest Office Party' set

The third annual World's Largest Office Party will take place Thursday, Dec. 18 in the Grand Ballroom of the Hyatt Regency Monterey.

A $3.50 donation at the door benefits the Monterey Peninsula Jaycees Underprivileged Children's Shopping Tour.

The party is sponsored by Hyatt Regency Monterey, KSBW-TV, KWAV radio, Coca-Cola, PSA, Bay Video, John Kelly Enterprises and Monterey Peninsula Jaycees.

Local celebrities, politicians, business leaders and media personalities serve as guest bartenders. Live entertainment will be provided by Cheeky Spanks, Bobby Dean's "Starfinders" and Tim Bui on piano. Participants will see the "world's largest" edible bagel, Christmas card, in/out box and more.

For details, call 372-1234.

Tahoe, Nev. She was an artist who specialized in oil paintings of landscapes and portraits.

Survivors include her husband; Ray; three daughters, Vali Rae Anderson of Gilroy, Gabrielle Irene Carpenter of Reno, and Chandra Tone Curtis of Reno; and three grandchildren.

At her request, no funeral services took place. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Julia I. Ameil

Graveside services took place Dec. 8 at the Monterey

City Cemetery for Julia I. Ameil, a resident of Carmel for more than 70 years, who died Dec. 4 at Driftwood Convalescent Hospital. She was 74.

She was born March 21, 1912 in Norristown, Pa.

Survivors include two sons, Robert of Pacific Grove and Richard of Carmel; a daughter, Ruth Thibault of Westport, Mass.; a brother, Joseph McElowney of Carmel; a sister, Eileen Sutherland of Santa Cruz; and two grandsons.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society, 439 Pearl St., Monterey.

CARMEL VALLEY COMMUNITY CHAPEL

EMMANUEL FELLOWSHIP

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

Merry Christmas

Invocation to the Carmel Rotary Club
Dec. 2, 1981

Years ago I had a French professor, M.L'Abbe Jean Jacques Pelletier, who would have made an ideal dinner companion for the character in Charles Dickens' Tale of Two Cities, Madame La Farge. She knitted vigorously and joyfully as the heads of French nobles were chopped off by the efficient invention of Dr. Joseph Iynocoe Guillotine.

M. L'Abbe Pelletier would say, with genuine venom and obvious delight, "I forgive but I never forget." Of course, this meant that he cherished all injuries, real and imaginary. He encased them carefully in a strong box from which he brought his gems of hatred to embarrass, shame and perplex his friends and foes.

We wonder how many marriages, family relations and friendships have been wrecked on the rocks of a long and mean memory. As we prepare for Christmas we should begin by digging a grave six feet deep and bury the box of injuries without a headstone. This is the ideal time to put into practice our blessed Lord's advice to forgive not seven times but 70 times seven.

The Rev. Peter Marshall, the beloved Presbyterian minister and chaplain to the United States Senate during the late 1940's wrote: "Lord, Thou hast asked me to love my neighbors and friends as I love myself. That would be a lot of loving. Lord, give me the courage to go to a friend against whom I hold a grudge and say, 'I am sorry, forgive me.'"

At a kindergarten Christmas party there was a play. Four little angels held golden glittering letters which spelt out "STAR." Unfortunately, like many of us, they came out on the stage in reverse. In this order it really doesn't spell out the Christmas message, does it? Amen.

The Rev. Dr. John-Paul Beaudoin will deliver the fourth in a sermon series Telling About Jesus: The Gospel Writer John at the 11 a.m. service. Church School and adult education at 10 a.m. Child care provided both hours. On Christmas Eve, a candlelight service of carols, reading, music and prayer will be conducted by both Ministers, beginning at 11 p.m.

The chapel is located on the corner of Paso Hondo Road and Village Drive, Carmel Valley. Coffee hour and refreshments follow the services.

CARMEL CHURCH OF RELIGIOUS SCIENCE

The Seaside Church of Religious Science will join with the Carmel Church of Religious Science in a candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m. at the American Legion Post No. 512, Dolores near Eighth, Carmel.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The subject of the lesson-sermon will be Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force? at the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Monte Verde and Fifth in Carmel.

The service is at 10 a.m. with Sunday School at the same hour. Wednesday evening testimonial meeting is at 8 p.m.

COMMUNITY

The Rev. James Clark Brown will preach the sermon at the 10:30 a.m. service at the Community Church at the Monterey Peninsula. A coffee hour follows morning worship. Church school for children is at 10:30 a.m. Nursery care is provided.

The church is a mile east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road.

Pastor Reese Mayo will preach the sermon at Emmanuel Fellowship (Foursquare Church). Services are held at the Monterey Carpenter's Union Hall, 778 Hawthorne and Irving Avenue, New Monterey.

Services are at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Discovery classes for all ages are held at 9 a.m.

Nursery care is provided for all gatherings. Home Bible studies are held during the week. Call 646-0121 for location nearest you.

PRESBYTERIAN

Dr. G. Raymond Campbell will preach the sermon God Goes Camping! at the 8:15 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. services. Music by the Chancel Choir. On Christmas Eve a family service will take place at 6 p.m. A candlelight carol service will take place at 9 and 11 p.m.

Families are encouraged to worship together at the services. The church is at Ocean and Junipero, Carmel.

Mr. Anker will preach the sermon The Wraps Come Off at the 7 and 11 p.m. Services. Also at 7 p.m. a family service will take place featuring the children and youth chorus, and a candlelight service will take place at 11 p.m.

Services are at 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m.

Nursery care is provided.

WON BUDDHIST TEMPLE

Master Sang San will deliver the sermon at 11 a.m. Daily meditation classes are 5:30 to 6:30 a.m. and 8 to 9 p.m.

Won Buddhist Temple is located at 28110 Robinson Canyon Road, Carmel Mid-Valley, 624-3686.

The Golden Years

By Myles Williams

Moderate physical exercise during our adult years can significantly increase our life expectancy, an ongoing study of nearly 17,000 alumni of Harvard University has demonstrated. Men who participated in such activities as walking, climbing stairs and playing sports to burn up more than 2,000 calories a week showed death rates between one-quarter and one-third lower than men who were least active, regardless of age.

The 12 percent of Americans who are over age 65 take 25 percent of all prescription drugs. A survey by the American Association of Retired Persons found that a third of its elderly respondents took no prescription drugs at all, but a quarter of the group took three or more prescription medications.

Remember When? 1947 — An enormous wooden flying boat, the "Spruce Goose," built by Howard Hughes, went on its only flight. Hughes was at the controls of the immense seaplane and flew for about a minute over Long Beach Harbor, California.

Christmas feasts on restaurant menus Dec. 25

CHRISTMAS DINNERS served in Monterey Peninsula restaurants reflect holiday traditions gathered from around the world. The following establishments invite others to celebrate Christmas in special ways.

Carmel

A Christmas tradition continues at Pine Inn, Ocean Avenue between Lincoln and Monte Verde, where holiday dinners will be served both Christmas Eve and Christmas Day.

Seatings will be at 5:30 and 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 24 for the dinner that includes choice of prime rib of beef, breast of chicken with mushrooms, roast leg of lamb or poached salmon in a butter sauce. Accompaniments include smoked salmon souffle, consomme with sherry, tossed green salad, pastries from the Pine Inn and after-dinner truffles. On Christmas Day there will be four seatings: 12:30, 2:45, 5:30 and 8 p.m. Entree choice is prime rib of beef or roast turkey. The meal includes assorted relishes, mixed nuts, poached salmon, chicken princess soup and tossed green salad. Reservations are requested for both dinners, which are priced at $18.95, $9.50 for children under 10. American Express, Visa and Master Card are accepted. 624-3851.

Reservations are needed for the Christmas dinner served 2 to 8 p.m. at Sans Souci, Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth. The dinner begins with salad Sans Souci and chestnut soup. Diners then have a choice of three entrees: roast turkey with homemade dressing and giblet gravy, $15.95; roast leg of lamb with chanterelles, $18; or hot terrine of sea scallops, $16.95. Dinner includes fresh cranberry sauce with orange and lemon zest, roasted chestnuts, maple-glazed sweet potatoes, medley of garden vegetables, pumpkin pie or mincemeat pie with sherry sauce. A dinner is available for children under 12 for $11.95. All major credit cards are accepted. 624-6220.

Christmas dinner will be served 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. at The Topiary Lounge in the Carmel Mission Inn, Highway 1 and Rio Road. Diners will have the following entree choices: roast tom turkey with chestnut and almond dressing, fresh cranberry sauce and giblet gravy; prime rib of beef au jus and horseradish sauce; baked ham with pineapple sauce, candied sweet potatoes, mashed fresh potatoes and fresh vegetables. Salad bar is included and desserts are choice of pecan or pumpkin pie. Price is $13.50 for adults, children under 10, $6.75. Major credit cards are accepted and reservations advised. 624-3399.

Holiday cheer will be on tap Dec. 25 at Jack London's, located off San Carlos Street between Fifth and Sixth in "The Mall." The kitchen will not be open, but from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. liquor and appetizers will flow in abundance. 624-2336.

Anton and Michel, Mission Street between Ocean and Seventh, will serve a traditional Christmas dinner with all the trimmings from 2 to 9 p.m. The special dinner begins with consomme julienne or tossed green salad. Diners are offered choice of roast Christmas goose with apple stuffing or tom turkey with sage stuffing, giblet gravy and fresh cranberry sauce. The meal includes whipped potatoes, fresh garden vegetables, Yule log and coffee or tea. Price is $18.50, $11.50 for children under 12. The regular menu will also be served. All major credit cards are accepted, and reservations are advised. 624-2406.

Christmas bounty is the order of the day at Scandia, Ocean Avenue at Fifth. Meal times are noon to 10 p.m., and reservations are requested. All dinners include Kavli strips, seafood cocktail, bread and butter, salad, clam chowder or cream of mushroom soup, fresh garden vegetable and potato. Entree choices are roast stuffed duckling, $12.95; turkey, $11.95; prime rib, $13.95; roast leg of lamb, $11.95; or poached salmon, $12.95. Children under 10 receive a special dinner for $6.50. Visa, Master Card and American Express are accepted. 624-5659.

At Highlands Inn in Carmel Highlands, the popular buffet will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Christmas Day. Priced at $26, $13 for children, the buffet features roast New York strip, honey-glazed ham, roast turkey, leg of lamb, saute of shrimp and scallops, apple wheat dressing, rice pilaf, scalloped potatoes, sweet potatoes, domestic and imported cheeses, shrimp and oysters on ice, sashimi, variety of pates and sausages, variety of salads, pumpkin cheesecake, apple strudel, cranberry mousse, mincemeat pie and pumpkin pie. All major credit cards are accepted. Reservations are advised. 624-3801.

Choose from quality seafood entrees or a special holiday dinner Dec. 25 at Fish House on the Park, Junipero and Sixth. Open 4 to 9:30 p.m., the restaurant will feature choice of roast leg of lamb or prime rib. The meal includes mashed potatoes, fresh vegetables, soup or salad, dessert and beverage, and is priced at $18.50. Reservations are suggested and all major credit cards accepted. 625-1766.

An extensive Christmas feast will be served at Spyglass at La Playa, Camino Real at Eighth. Seatings will be at 2, 4:30 and 7 p.m.

PENINSULA AUTHOR Randall Reinstedt shows his latest book Stagecoach Santa to Hap Minnes. He will autograph copies from 5 to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Dec. 18-19

Author Randy Reinstedt hitches a ride with 'Stagecoach Santa'

By MAC McDONALD

THE PUBLICATION last year of Monterey Peninsula author Randall A. Reinstedt's More Than Memories, a fourth-grade textbook on Monterey County's colorful history, just whetted his appetite for more.

"I really found out how much I missed working with kids," said the former school-teacher turned author, who has released a new children's book just in time for Christmas, Stagecoach Santa. "It's written with third, fourth and fifth-graders in mind. It's really a neat Christmas story with a great twist at the end."

Reinstedt, a former Carmel resident who now lives in Pacific Grove, will sign copies of Stagecoach Santa from 5 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 18 and Friday, Dec. 19 at Colton Hall during the annual Christmas at the Adobes festivities.

Stagecoach Santa is the first in Reinstedt's new History and Happenings of California Series for young readers. The series is meant to bring alive California history for young readers with its blending of storytelling and historical lore.

Other titles under consideration include Otters, Octopuses, and Odd Creatures of the Deep, Ghostly Happenings at Robert Louis Stevenson House, The Mystery of Bigfoot Canyon, and others. Not exactly your run-of-the-mill historical stories.

Reinstedt, who has written eight other books, including Where Have All the Sardines Gone? and a series of short books on local historical oddities and unusual happenings (ghosts, sea monsters, pirates and bandits etc.), likes to take intriguing local people and events and weave fanciful and interesting stories around them. Historical accuracy, however, is always paramount in his tales.

"The basic outline is certainly similar," he says, taking the story of Stagecoach Santa as an example. "But all the history has been added. It makes for a more exciting tale. The details are authentic so people who live in the area are really going to identify with the stories."

Stagecoach Santa is a story that came out of an old scrapbook by an "Old Monterey pioneer resident," then was recounted in a 1969 column in the Monterey Peninsula Herald.

RTS & LEISURE

The story takes place in the San Antonio Valley town of Jolon in 1881 and is the tale of 8-year-old Carl Edward Browne, who has recently moved to sunny California from Ohio with his family and is worried about the annual appearance of Santa. How will Santa ever find him in his new home and how can he drive his sleigh where there isn't any snow?

The young boy's questions lead him to a spooky moonlit adventure and the mysterious appearance of the "Stagecoach Santa."

An added feature of Reinstedt's new series for this multi-course meal that begins with holiday canapes and tossed salad served with honey mustard dressing. For the main course, diners have a choice of three entrees: roast turkey with apple-herb stuffing, mushroom gravy, and mashed red potatoes ($18.50, child's portion $8.95); fresh Coho salmon with lemon cream sauce and wild rice ($21); or roast sirloin with port sauce and mashed red potatoes ($21). All dinners come with braised baby onions and fresh vegetables. To complete the feast, choose from coffee, tea or milk and from the season's pastry cart. Reservations are a necessity. American Express, Master Card and Visa are accepted. 624-4010.

For a Christmas treat with Asian flair, dine in the Japanese country-style warmth of Shabu-Shabu. Lunch will be served 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and dinner from 5:30 to 10 p.m. Shabu-Shabu is located in Carmel Plaza, Mission between Ocean and Seventh. It features one-pot, Japanese cooking at your table. American Express, Visa and Master Card are accepted. 625-2828.

Christmas dinner will be served from 2:30 p.m. on at The Swiss Tavern, located upstairs on Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth. There will be Christmas roast goose and roast turkey plus a limited regular menu. The goose is $14.95 and includes red cabbage, fresh chestnut dressing and cranberry sauce. The roast turkey is $13.50. Children under 10 will be served dinner for half-price. Reservations are advised. American Express, Master Card and Visa are accepted. 624-5994.

Carmel Valley

Christmas dinner will be served at 4:30, 6:30, 7 and 7:30 p.m. at The Covey at Quail Lodge. Reservations are a must for the dinner, which opens with such appetizer choices as smoked salmon with apple and cream cheese tart, avocado and shrimp, duck liver pate or stuffed chicken with jicama salad. Soup varieties are game soup with sherry or she crab soup. The meal continues with salad of California greens with Aziago dressing. Entree choices are breast of goose, $30; rack of lamb, $36; California lobster thermidor, $44; roast beef rib eye, $26. All entrees come with wild rice, Parisienne potato, broccoli in lemon butter, glazed onions and root vegetable puree. Desserts are choice of plum pudding with brandy butter, mince pie with creme Anglaise, spiced quince with cranberry sauce and ice cream and hot chocolate sauce. All major credit cards are accepted. 624-1581.

The Ridge, located in Robles Del Rio Lodge on Calle de la Ventana, will serve its regular menu plus several specials from 1 to 9 p.m. on Christmas Day. Reservations are suggested, and Visa and Master Card accepted. 659-0170.

At Los Laureles Lodge, Christmas dinner will be served at 4, 6 and 8 p.m. The menu includes relish tray, a shrimp bisque soup, butter lettuce with red raspberry vinaigrette, medley of vegetables and hot biscuits. Diners choose from roast turkey with hazelnut dressing or glazed ham with yams. Dessert is fresh berry mousse. Complete dinner is $16.95, $7.95 for children 12 and under. Reservations are requested. Visa and Master Card are accepted. 659-2233.

Monterey

A Christmas buffet will be served Dec. 25 at Tony's, 301 Alvarado St. Diners can select from roast prime rib of beef au jus with Yorkshire pudding, roast Christmas goose with prune stuffing, roast leg of lamb with mint sauce, baked ham, au gratin potatoes, assorted salads, fresh vegetables and assorted desserts. Dinner hours are 2 to 9 p.m. The price is $16.50 for adults, $8.75 for children 5 to 12 and free for children under 5. All major credit cards are accepted and reservations are advised. 375-8669.

The Fortune Cookie, 429 Alvarado St., will be open 4:30 to 9 p.m. Christmas Day.

The special Christmas dinner begins with complimentary champagne and includes soup, Chinese chicken salad, roast duck, a seafood or meat entree, pork fried rice, tea and fortune cookie. Price is $12.50 per person, with a minimum of two diners. Reservations are recommended. Visa, Master Card, American Express and Diner's Club are accepted. 375-3000.

Seafood fans will find much to please on Christmas Day at Bullwacker's, 653 Cannery Row. The full menu will be served 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Christmas Day. Highlights include steaks, seafood, omelettes, appetizers and a light menu. On Christmas Eve Bullwacker's will close at 5 p.m. All major credit cards are accepted and food can be ordered to take out. 373-1353.

Pacific Grove

A "Joyeux Noel" will be extended to all who visit La Provence, 105-A Ocean View Blvd. A special Christmas dinner will begin with hors d'oeuvres, including rilletes, tapenade, saucisson and olives and continues with choice of cream of chicken soup or Santa Claus salad. Diners will select from the following entrees: roasted tom turkey with stuffing, chestnuts, yams, potato duchesse and cranberries; or filet of fresh salmon with bouquet of vegetables, crawfish sauce and homemade linguini; or sliced Angus sirloin strip with sauce vigneronne, bouquet of vegetables and potato duchesse. Traditional Christmas log and coffee Chantilly complete the meal, priced at $14.95 complete, $9.95 for children. The special dinner will be served along with the regular menu on Christmas Eve. It is also available 2 to 9:30 p.m. Christmas day and from 6 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 26. Reservations are advised. All major credit cards are accepted. 649-0707.

Huntington paintings showcased

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Museum of Art is currently sponsoring an exhibition of oil paintings by Thomas Huntington depicting abstract landscapes. It can be viewed at the Monterey Conference Center's Alvarado Lobby through Jan. 25.

Thomas Huntington celebrates life with a wildly colorful palette, filled with inventiveness and whimsy, melded into a world of people and places uniquely his own. With playful exuberance and bold strokes of color, he presents a very personal interpretation of local as well as imaginative scenes.

In 1971, he enrolled in the Santa Barbara Art Institute as a sculpture major.

"I wanted to get away from cartooning to 'serious' art," he explains. His passion for color and the textural qualities of oil paints gradually seduced him away from sculpture, and, in 1975, he graduate from the institute as a painting major.

"There are two kinds of artists," Huntington commented, "those who can draw perfectly and colorists. I think color first, before form. I paint intuitively."

Reinstedt will autograph 'Stagecoach Santa' is the "Author's Notes" at the end of the book in which he reveals facts about the story's setting, characters and historical allusions.

"There's so much more I wanted to say (in the stories), but I couldn't go on and on and on," says Reinstedt about the wealth of historical minutiae that can accompany a story. Thus "Author's Notes" was born.

Stagecoach Santa is accompanied by 15 line drawings by Judith L. Macdonald of Carmel Highlands, who has among her credits illustrations for several elementary school textbooks.

The 40-page hardcover book is available at all local bookstores.

800 number offers links to self-help groups

Every year, well-intentioned people set New Year's resolutions, only to find that noble goals for self-improvement often crumble by Feb. 1.

Now, the California Self-Help Center at UCLA offers a way to keep those resolutions alive, by providing proven ways to fight bad habits: convenient self-help groups for people who want to improve their emotional and physical health.

By calling (800) 222-LINK toll-free, Californians can find referrals to more than 2,800 free or low-cost support groups statewide. Some of the groups that can help people achieve their goals "one day at a time" are Overeaters Anonymous, Adult Children of Alcoholics, Cocaine Anonymous, Al-Anon, Gamblers Anonymous, Alcoholics Anonymous, Emotional Health Anonymous and Debtors Anonymous.

Other groups offer various methods to help people cope better with troubling situations such as divorce, bereavement, child abuse, caring for aging parents or physical illness.

"Being with others who show courage and determination to actively change their attitudes and behavior gives people strength to stick it out and keep on target with their resolutions," said Gerald Goodman, center co-director and professor of psychology at UCLA. "Self-help support group members can gain a new sense of control in their lives and feel less overwhelmed by their problems."

Some self-help support group members reported that they have developed a more positive outlook, higher self-esteem, and better functioning as a result of their group participation.

"When I first came to Gamblers Anonymous, I had no spirit to do anything. I lost a $60,000 a year job and my marriage was breaking up."

Camerata Singers and orchestra present 'Music at the Missions'

A MONTEREY PENINSULA Christmas tradition returns with the Camerata Singers' vocal celebrations, "Christmas at the Missions." The singers, guest soloists and chamber orchestra will perform under the baton of Vahe Aslanian at Mission San Antonio and the Carmel Mission Basilica.

Mission San Antonio, located near Jolon in southern Monterey County, will be the site of the Sunday, Dec. 21 concert. Admission is $6.

At 8 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 21, the Camerata Singers will perform at Carmel Mission Basilica. Admission to the Carmel concert is $8 for students and $10 for adults.

Works to be performed on these programs have been edited and transcribed especially for the Camerata Singers and Orchestra by Dr. Aslanian.

Original Baroque ornamentation will illuminate both concerts, which will feature music of the French Baroque era, which reached its apex with the reign of Louis XIV, from 1643 to 1715.

Featured works will include motets by De Lalande, Du Mont, Monteclair and the "Messe de Minuit" of Marc-Antoine Charpentier.

The Camerata Singers will be accompanied by a chamber orchestra and assisted by guest soloists Anna Carol Dudley and Katrina Carlson, sopranos; Harlan Hokin, counter-tenor; Gene Albin, tenor and Peter Tuff, baritone.

The Camerata Singers were organized in 1980 by Vahe Aslanian to provide opportunities for experienced singers to perform choral works in Monterey County and environs.

During his 30-year career as professor of music at Hartnell College, Dr. Aslanian directed the Hartnell College Choir, Chamber Singers and the Hartnell Community Chorus. He was the founder-director of the Hartnell Conservatory of Music.

He has continued his work as a conductor of festival choruses and lecturer in the Far East and in the United States as well as editor of choral music for publication.

The Camerata Singers is a not-for-profit organization. For season ticket information call 758-8970 or 625-4254.

Film festival expands its scope

LAREINA CHARDONNAY has been named the official sponsor for the first ever Monterey Film Festival, announced David Bean, director of the event.

"Support for the festival is coming together beautifully," Bean added, "with United Airlines, The Monterey Sheraton, Smith and Hook Winery and The Monterey Vineyard also joining as sponsors."

"The festival schedule is continuing to expand, with American and foreign film premieres, as well as seminars on script-writing, film directing and music video production. Special tributes and parties have been added to complement the four-day event.

Highlights include:

—A world premiere of a major film to be announced (set for Monterey Cinema 70 Theatre) with a grand premiere celebration to follow.

—A 20th anniversary tribute screening of Monterey Pop, with comments by the film director D. A. Pennebaker, John Phillips, founder of the Mamas and Papas and producer of the film, and Scott McKinzie, who gave the festival its theme song, "If You're Going to San Francisco (Be Sure to Wear A Flower In Your Hair." This screening will then be followed by the Monterey Pop Reunion Party at the Monterey Fairgrounds, original site of the Pop Festival.

—A Cliff Robertson tribute, including a screening of the film Charly, for which Robertson won the Academy Award for best actor. The screening will be followed by a gala black-tie Monterey Vineyard Directors Ball with special guests Clint Eastwood and Jane Russell as well as numerous other film luminaries.

—A grand finale party, hosted by La Reina Chardonnay and the award winning wines of Monterey Wine Country, and a Tribute to National Football League Films, attended by Steve Sabol, co-founder of NFL Films, and major film stars and sports figures, to be held at the Carmel Valley Country Club at Quail Lodge.

Ticket prices range from $5 for regular festival screenings to $50 for the most elaborate evening events, with an all inclusive evening event ticket price of $150. The official festival screening schedule is to be announced.

Tickets are available at Bass/Ticket Master throughout California and at Centerstage Ticketing in Monterey.

Ballet Fantasque stages 'Nutcracker' in Carmel

THE BALLET FANTASQUE Company of the Monterey Peninsula, in collaboration with Berkeley Ballet Theater, will present the full-length "Nutcracker Ballet" at both 3 and 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20 in Sunset Theater, Carmel.

A cast of more than 50 will dance in E.T.A. Hoffman's Christmas fairy tale set to Tchaikovsky's famous score. Soloists from Utah and New York will also dance in the production. Carmel's Rising Star Gymnastic Team will perform the roles of the Mice.

Admission is $10 general, $5 for senior citizens and children under 12.

Tickets are available Do Re Mi Records in the Barnyard and the 1887 Shop in Carmel Plaza, Carmel; Abinante Music Store, Center Stage and Children's Bootery, Monterey; and Bookworks in Pacific Grove.

Sunset Theater is on San Carlos Street near Ninth Avenue in Carmel. Reservations are advised for this production. For more information, call 372-0388.

THE SNOW Pas de Deux will be performed by Jane DeLay and Larry Crabtree in the Ballet Fantasque production of "The Nutcracker." The ballet will be staged at 3 and 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20 at Sunset Theater, Carmel. Crabtree joins Ballet Fantasque as a guest artist from New York City.

Three-part lecture series focuses on gardens

The Gardeners' World is the subject of a three-part lecture-slide series to begin in January at the Santa Catalina School. The Sunday series, sponsored by Peninsula Beautiful, features three widely travelled garden authorities who will speak at 3 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center.

Opening the series on Jan. 18 is Elizabeth Murray in a return visit to the peninsula stage after a sell-out performance last spring. A landscape gardener, designer, photographer and painter, Murray has just returned from a six-month journey to France and Southern Africa. She will show slides of Giverny, Claude Monet's famous garden France—bringing that historic garden's restoration up-to-date and also discuss classic French gardens, including those of Princess Sturdza. She will end her talk with slides of the wildflowers of Southern Africa.

Second in the series will be the "Parks and Gardens in the New China" on Feb. 22. Judy Donaghey, a member of the first delegation of landscape horticulturists to visit the Peoples' Republic of China from the United States and Canada, will present news from behind the Bamboo Curtain. Her presentation will describe Chinese gardening practices both modern and ancient.

March 22, noted landscape architect and historian Thomas Brown will reveal the Islamic influences on California garden design. A recognized authority on the influences shaping California gardens, Brown will illustrate his lecture with slides of historic gardens and contemporary projects.

Tickets can be purchased in advance from Center Stage Ticketing, 649-5561.

Single lecture tickets are $5 each; the series of the three lectures, $12. Series tickets should be purchased before Jan. 10.

The series is sponsored by Peninsula Beautiful, Inc., an organization dedicated to the preservation of the beauty of Monterey Peninsula through community gardening projects.

Winter solstice celebrated

A multi-media journey of initiation titled "Between Earth and Sky," a celebration of the winter solstice in the Celtic tradition, arrives Sunday, Dec. 21 in Monterey.

Mara Freeman will present a program of music, slides and poetry derived from sacred rites and rituals of old England and Ireland.

Requested donation for the program is $5. It will take place 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Church of Religious Science, 400 W. Franklin St., Monterey.

The Association of Symbolic Arts sponsors the program. The association is a non-profit organization founded to further research and educate in the universal language of symbols. For information, call 625-5792.

ON STAGE

A Seed Beneath the Snow

Unicorn Theater Presents offers its Christmas collection of short stories and poems, A Seed Beneath the Snow. The show, compiled by Chuck Thurman and staged at Cherry Hall in Carmel, strives to bring back the basic meaning of Christmas.

Works in the show include Susie's Letter from Santa by Mark Twain, How Santa Claus Came to Simpson's Bar by Francis Bret Harte, The Little Fir Tree by Hans Christian Andersen and The Gift of the Magi by O. Henry. Performers include William Cates, Carol Collin, Carey Crockett and Mitchell Davis.

A Seed Beneath the Snow plays at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Dec. 19-20, at Cherry Hall, Guadalupe and Fourth, Carmel. Tickets are $4. Information: 649-5561 or 373-0155.

La Virgen del Tepeyac

El Teatro Campesino founder Luis Valdez adapted La Virgen del Tepeyac, a 16th century miracle play based on the four apparitions of Our Lady of Guadalupe. The play is presented at Old Mission San Juan Bautista, the largest of the 21-mission chain.

Tony Curiel, associate artistic director for El Teatro Campesino, will stage the play, a celebration of drama, music and dance. The play tells of the humble Indio and the brown mother of Jesus Christ in the new world.

Tickets will be available at the mission door on a first-come, first-served basis, or by reservation.

Final performances of La Virgen del Tepeyac will be staged at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, Dec. 18-20. General admission is $8 Thursday and Sunday, $10 Friday and Saturday. Matinees are also offered at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20 ($6 admission) and 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21 ($8 admission). All prices are $2 less for senior citizens and youths. The Old Mission is accessible to the handicapped.

For information or reservations, call 623-2444.

Little Angel's Rest, Angels in Flight

The Indoor Forest Theater in Carmel provides the setting for a double-bill of holiday-themed plays for both children and adults. The Staff Players Repertory Company presents Little Angel's Rest and Angels in Flight. The original productions, staged in conjunction with the Children's Experimental Theatre, tell of orphans, mudlarks and dolls, and their endeavor to elude Victorian rigidity.

The cast includes James Goffard, Thomas Sanchez, Loel Shuler, Steve Harris, Norman Stottmeister, Scott Mattrau, Tiffany Grant, Randi Andrews, Yvonne Goodpasture and Patricia Cullen.

Orphan asylum

SULLY ORPSLATT (Patricia Cullen) oversees some of the orphans who populate Little Angels Rest. The orphans include, from left, Elizabeth English, Bernadette Koleszar, Cecily Novick, Aurora do Pico, Jessica Norton, Karin Peterson and Gabriella Fracchia. The holiday show concludes its run this weekend at the Indoor Forest Theater, Carmel.

Final performances will be offered at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 18-20.

Reservations are advised for this family show. Thursday tickets are $6 for adults, $4 for seniors and students. Friday and Saturday tickets are $7 and $5. The theater is located on Mountain View at Santa Rita in Carmel. For reservations, call 624-1531.

on group rates or theater parties, call 649-6852. For advance tickets, call 649-5561.

A Chorus Line

Celebrating the unsung hero of American musical theater — the chorus dancer — A Chorus Line is staged at the Monterey Peninsula College Theater. Peter DeBono directs the production, which features choreography by Carlton Johnson.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 2 and 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 18-21. Admission is $10 general, $7 student, senior or military and $4 children. The theater is located on the MPC campus, 980 Fremont Blvd. Information: 646-4063.

Cinderella

A confection set in the days of the Italian Renaissance, Rodgers and Hammerstein's Cinderella will be produced by The Western Stage.

Final performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 18-21. Admission is $11 and $8 Sunday and Thursday, $13 and $10 Friday and Saturday. Children and senior citizens receive $2 off. Subscribers can use half-price coupons. The Western Stage is located in the Performing Arts Center at Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas. For reservations or information, call 375-2111 or 758-1221.

A Christmas Carol

A new adaptation of Charles Dickens' yuletide classic, A Christmas Carol, concludes its run at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center. The cast, directed by Carlo Grossman, takes on multiple acting roles to tell the story of Ebenezer Scrooge, the penny-pinching miser whose pursuit of money has made him bitter and friendless.

A production by The Poetic Drama Institute, A Christmas Carol features John Rousseau as Scrooge.

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 18-21. Admission is $5. The theater is at 320 Hoffman (at Lighthouse) in New Monterey. For information

THEATER REVIEW

By Joanne Tenenbaum

GroveMont's 'A Christmas Carol'

IT OCCURS to me only now, slow learner that I am, that 19th century Londoners may have had their own problems grappling with the Christmas season. Dickens can't have gotten from nowhere the sentiments expressed so pungently by Scrooge in A Christmas Carol.

"What's Christmas time to you," Scrooge demands of his penniless, cheerful nephew, "but a time for paying bills without money?" You might well ask, for 20th century Christmas commercialism has assumed nightmare proportions from which even the ghost of Christmas Future might choose to flee.

All the more reason, it seems to me, to spend one solid non-commercial hour getting back in touch with the basics. GroveMont Theater's costumed combination reading and enactment of A Christmas Carol offers no spectacle, but serves up instead a rendering of Dickens' classic that is much closer to the language of the original than larger scale productions commonly are.

On a bare stage, a modestly costumed cast of eight variously confides the tale to us and enacts portions of it. Director Carlo Grossman's adaptation succeeds very well, for Dickens' narrative voice is full of energy and variety, and the players tell us the story as though the words are their own.

This treatment gives us not only full development of Scrooge's penurious and disagreeable character, but a much richer reversal at the story's predictable end. John Rousseau's menacingly angry Scrooge is strong and believable through the gamut of emotions to which Dickens' wraiths subject him. All the better when he flips into gibbering leprechaun, relieved and astonished at the transformation of his personal darkness into the light of a merry Christmas day. For once, we get to enjoy his good fortune with him, as he makes his Christmas rounds, delighting and surprising everybody.

Except for Rousseau, the small cast plays several roles each. Paul Gaucher's doomed Marley's Ghost (abetted by Jim Mairs' eerie sound effects) gives way to Scrooge's resolutely cheerful nephew, for example. Ann Mattingly plays an affecting Mrs. Cratchit, then gives an equally effective performance as the corpse-robbing harridan in Scrooge's bleak future.

Jack Whittaker is a splendid Christmas present, bedecked in red velvet and wreathed in holly; he, too, plays other characters. Stephen Canepa is a gentle Cratchit, and Sue Fishkoff handles a variety of small parts very well. Julie Hughett is appealing, too, as young Scrooge's fiancée.

In short, the players acquit themselves well, the more noticeably so in the absence of palpable staging. Such props as there are (Scrooge's ledgers, the Cratchit's Christmas turkey and so on) are minced into existence with gesture, and this too is interesting.

A Christmas Carol concludes its run this week with 8 p.m. performances Thursday through Saturday and a final 2 p.m. Sunday matinee. Dickens' beloved tale still has the power to upstage bad temper and commercialism.

SCROOGE (John Rousseau) chastises Bob Cratchitt (Jack Whittaker) for wanting Christmas Eve off in the yuletide classic, A Christmas Carol. The Poetic Drama Institute staging closes this weekend at the GroveMont Theater Arts Center in New Monterey.

THEATER REVIEW

By James P. Kinney

Unicorn Theater stages a meditation on Christmas

PEOPLE WHO HAVE never actively involved themselves in any aspect of a theatrical production are often surprised at the near-religious intensity of those who do. It is not an idle observation. Greek tragedy had its roots in the worship of Greek gods. And the early plays of Christian western Europe were miracle and morality plays evolving from the church's festivals and liturgy.

The human heart craves mystery as much as the human mind craves knowledge. If they do not find it in religion, humans will seek it somewhere else. I myself have found more Christian compassion and understanding of the human heart in a single scene from a good Tennessee Williams' play than in a year's worth of sermons at some of the parish churches I have attended. No wonder some people prefer attending the theater. The sets are bigger, the costumes are more lavish, and the price ultimately is not as steep.

In Unicorn Theater Presents current offering, A Seed Beneath the Snow: Christmas Past, Present & Future at the Cherry Foundation, Carey Crockett (producer) and Chuck Thurman (director) have staged what is, in effect, a meditation on the meaning of Christmas.

Using 11 pieces of literature dealing with Christmas, these two capable theatrical people have tried to get to the heart of this very special holiday in its various American manifestations which, in a director's note in the program, is described as "the giving of the promise of life," the seed beneath the snow.

CAREY CROCKETT conjures Christmas spirits in the Unicorn Theater Presents production of A Seed Beneath the Snow.

CAREY CROCKETT is a legend of sorts in peninsula theatrical circles. He is a consensus genius at designing and executing sets. He is a serious director and a character actor of some depth and scope. There is also something more than faintly Victorian about Crockett's stage presence. He is at various times stentorian, pompous and overbearing. But he can just as readily be folksy, down-country, and mellifluous. In this show, to my surprise, I detected him using a movie voice I had never heard before, avuncular, quite American, and John Huston-sounding.

Crockett's set was homey. Some greenery. Some throw rugs, wainscoting and a fireplace. Miniatures on the wall. It reminded me of my Grandpa Kinney's sitting room in Meadville, Pa.: rural Victorian.

The pieces, sometimes read, mostly memorized, were, in large part, of the Victorian period as well. Nineteenth century authors were in abundance — Thackeray, O. Henry, Mark Twain, Bret Harte, and Hans Christian Andersen. Actor William Cates was clear and direct in "The Annual Crisis of Love" as he was engaging and infectious in "A Miserable Merry Christmas" by Lincoln Jeffers. In this finely done autobiographical story, he portrays young Jeffers' pain and bitter disappointment until he finally gets a Christmas pony. It was beautifully done.

Carol Collin, exquisitely lovely in a red dress, long cloak and ermine collar, slyly eased herself and the audience into O. Henry's "Gift of the Magi," which has to be one of everybody's favorite Christmas stories, and narrated Hans Christian Andersen's classic "The Little Fir Tree" without script. She has a classic face for the stage, all eyes and wistfulness and intelligent gentility. More experience can only help her establish a stronger stage presence and more natural gestures. She projects that rarity on local stages, a real lady.

Mitchell Davis proved to be as unpretentious and masculine as the husband in "Magi" as he was grouchy and comical as an old mouse in "The Little Fir Tree." It was an attractive quartet of players.

Diana Crockett was a smiling hostess and stage director who served hot cider after the show and pleasantly finished off an evening of quiet, reflective theater, the mystery of Christmas as seen through a variety of serious writers and portrayed by some competent local actors.

A Seed Beneath the Snow plays Friday and Saturday, Dec. 19 and 20 at the Cherry Foundation, Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel-by-the-Sea. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Monterey adobes open doors to holiday visitors

ON THURSDAY and Friday, Dec. 18-19, Monterey's historic adobes will take on a festive glow during the annual Christmas in the Adobes celebration. From 5 to 9 each night, a path of luminaries will guide visitors from one building to the next to enjoy refreshments, music and warm greetings with the various 19th century costumed volunteers.

Sponsored by the California State Parks Department and Old Monterey Preservation Society, the adobe tour includes 13 of Monterey's historic buildings, each decorated in a different theme to match the original resident or time period the building represents.

For example, Monterey's famous Custom House reflects the Port of Monterey's once active foreign trade with brightly-lit Chinese lanterns. Casa Soberanes is decorated in a traditional Mexican style, and the Larkin House is bedecked with holly and fruit baskets to emulate an old-fashioned New England Christmas.

One ticket, $5 for adults and $1 for children, ages 6-17, admits visitors to all the historic buildings on the tour.

Following is a list of the adobes that will welcome visitors with special festivities.

Casa Gutierrez, 590 Calle Principal. Visit the historic Gutierrez Adobe, home of Sancho Panza restaurant, and enjoy the sights, sounds and food of Christmas in Mexican Monterey.

Casa Serrano, 412 Pacific St. Participate in an old-fashioned family Christmas with music and caroling around the piano.

Casa Soberanes, 336 Pacific St. The aroma of hot Mexican chocolate fills the Christmas air of this beautiful Mexican home.

Colton Hall Museum, Colton Hall on Pacific Street. Join this book-signing party featuring a new publication by peninsula historian Randall Reinstedt, Stagecoach Santa. Enjoy early California music as performed by local musician/songwriter Tim Robinson.

Cooper-Molera Adobe, Polk and Munras streets. An opportunity to enjoy a Victorian Christmas and view the new furnishings in this recently restored adobe.

Custom House, Custom House Plaza at Wharf No. 1. Experience California's first Custom House lit by candlelight and decorated in a Mexican theme.

Boston Store, Scott and Olivier streets. Enjoy the nostalgic scents of Christmas in this general merchandise store of the 1850s. Hosted by docents of the Monterey History and Art Association.

House of the Four Winds, 540 Calle Principal. Members of the Civic Club invite all to enjoy a Christmas for children with Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus giving out candy canes to the little ones.

Larkin House, 510 Calle Principal. The beauty of the Larkin House is enhanced with decorations of a traditional New England Christmas.

Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, 559 Pacific St. See a special art exhibit, "Eye of the Child," featuring art as envisioned by children.

Old Whaling Station, 391 Decatur St. Costumed members of the Junior League will host a Victorian Christmas at the old Whaling Station with music and refreshments.

Stevenson House, 530 Houston St. A Scottish New Year's theme will highlight the evening at the Stevenson House along with music and refreshments.

Additional information on all these holiday festivities can be obtained by calling 649-1770.

College brass musicians offer free concert

The third annual Monterey Festival of Brass will be presented at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 20 in the Steinbeck Forum of the Monterey Conference Center.

Monterey Peninsula College's Music Department is co-sponsoring the event with the Monterey Conference Center Arts Commission as part of the "Arts of the Center" series.

The program involves more than 40 musicians and was organized and directed by MPC Music Department Chairman Don Schamber.

Selections to be performed include "A Suite of Carols," by Leroy Anderson, "Three Carols in a Modern Setting," by Ted Blumenthal, "Adeste Fidelis," "Have Yourself a Merry Little Christmas" and "Hallelujah Chorus" arranged by Don Schamber.

The performance is open to the public and admission is free.

Career Bridge aids job seekers

The "Career Bridge" program of the YWCA is seeking unemployed single parents, homemakers in transition and AFDC recipients to participate in a no-cost, needs assessment survey to help increase employability.

The YWCA, in cooperation with the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District Vocational Education Department, offers Career Bridge beginning in January. It is an employment counseling and career opportunity program that includes workshops dealing with self-esteem, career and life planning and resume writing. It will lead to vocational training and entry in the MPUSD regional occupation program.

Career Bridge is a public service project of the YWCA of the Monterey Peninsula and is funded in part by the Carl D. Perkins Vocational Education Division of the California State Department of Education through the Monterey Peninsula Unified School District.

For details, call 649-0834.

Carolers traverse Monterey

A NONDENOMINATIONAL candlelight procession and group caroling through downtown Monterey is planned for Sunday evening, Dec. 21.

The ceremony, sponsored by the Nuclear Weapons Freeze of Monterey County, will begin at the Portola Statue at the foot of Alvarado Street (in front of the Doubletree Inn) at 6:30 p.m.

The procession will then proceed up Calle Principal, back down Alvarado Street to Del Monte Boulevard, left to Pacific Street and on to Colton Hall. The entire walk will be about one leisurely kilometer.

Local choirs and singing groups have been invited to participate but the event is open to the public. Families especially are invited. Music for the carols will be provided but participants are urged to bring their own candles. It is suggested that candles be pre-mounted in jars with a little water added for cooling.

Called "Carolers for Peace," the purpose of the ceremony, according to Jim Kinney, new local Freeze coordinator, is to give local citizens a chance to share solidarity with others who share their commitment to world peace.

A silent meditation and a few solos will conclude the procession in front of Colton Hall at about 8 p.m.

Volunteers transform hospital for the holidays

ABOUT 50 members of the auxiliary will spread holiday cheer Friday, Dec. 19 as they decorate Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula with colorful Christmas trees.

To make the season even brighter, an auxiliary-sponsored program of Christmas music begins in the hospital Saturday, Dec. 20.

Almost every available space in the hospital will be filled with seasonal decorations, as auxiliary volunteers assisted by gardening, housekeeping and maintenance employees place and decorate more than 30 Christmas trees.

Three new trees will make their appearance this year, according to auxiliary member Dorothy Capen. These include a tree covered with dozens of realistic, feathered birds in Emergency; a tree decorated with crystals and pastel ribbons in the Surgery/Intensive Care Unit waiting lounge area; and a tree festooned with traditional, wooden ornaments of animals and Christmas figures in Garden East.

The trees will range in height from two to 16 feet, with the heaviest concentration of trees surrounding the Fountain Court, Capen said. A guide to the larger trees will be passed out to visitors and patients at the reception desk.

Other trees will be located in various departments of the hospital, the doctors' lounge, and nursing stations.

Several of the trees will express themes familiar to hospital visitors. For example, there will be a 16-foot fir tree in the Garden South atrium with a children's theme, and another 16-foot tree in the Garden North atrium with an angel theme.

Another tradition is the eight-foot tree, known as the "Hospital Family Tree," decorated with mice and rabbit figures representing every department at Community Hospital.

"Decorating the hospital is the oldest activity for the auxiliary, something we have been doing for 31 years," Capen said. "Getting them all up in one day means there will be a lot of activity going on."

Capen and Mrs. Church Chappell, co-chairmen of the committee, usually travel to San Francisco in July or August to purchase new decorations to be added to the Christmas stockpile stored at the hospital.

Christmas music will grace Community Hospital, beginning with an appearance at 4 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 20 by Carolers Unlimited, who will sing Christmas carols at the Fountain Court. The music program is funded by the Maurine Church Coburn Charitable Trust. Other musical events include:

- Nancy Opsata will sing Christmas carols with keyboard accompaniment at 1 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21. Sister Chris Eaton will sing carols and play guitar at 7 p.m.

- Dave Clay will play Christmas music on keyboard at 1 p.m. Monday, Dec. 22. Elizabeth Pasquinelli, accompanied by her husband Art on guitar, will sing carols at 4 p.m.

- Carolers Unlimited will return at 5 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 23.

- Beverly Bellows will perform Christmas music for harp at 1 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 24.

- Mike Culver on vibraphone and Carmen Martin on cello will play Christmas music at 4 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 25.

The public is invited to visit Community Hospital to see the Christmas decorations and enjoy the seasonal music. For more information on auxiliary Christmas activities, call 625-4555.

Ashley Ramsden portrays Scrooge and other Dickensian characters

A SERIES OF benefit performances of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol will conclude Thursday, Dec. 18 at Mission Ranch in Carmel. The series benefits the Waldorf School of the Monterey Peninsula.

A Christmas Carol showcases the talents of storyteller, teacher and actor Ashley Ramsden who trained in Switzerland and Australia at the Rudolf Steiner Studios for speech and drama. He is co-founder of Mythos, an Australian company dedicated to the revival of the art of storytelling. He has performed his one-man shows in Europe, Australia and around the United States.

This one-man interpretation of A Christmas Carol will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 18 at Mission Ranch.

Admission is $8 per person, $15 per couple and $5 for students, to benefit the Waldorf School. The play is not recommended for children under 10.

For advance tickets, call the school at 372-4677.

A ONE-MAN STAGING of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol will be presented at Mission Ranch in Carmel. Storyteller, teacher and actor Ashley Ramsden will be featured in the play, a benefit for the Waldorf School of the Monterey Peninsula. For ticket information, call 372-4677.

ROUNDUP

Toys for Tots campaign celebrated

The 1986 Toys for Tots campaign will culminate with a Christmas Carousel celebration on Cannery Row Sunday, Dec. 21. Planned 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., the campaign will feature holiday-themed specials at the American Tin Cannery, Edgewater Packing Company, First Watch Restaurant, Captain's Gallery and McAbee Beach.

Visitors are invited to bring a toy to collection bins on Cannery Row. The toys will be distributed to needy children.

Foster parents' orientation set

An introduction for people interested in becoming foster parents and an orientation for new foster parents will be offered 4 to 6 p.m. the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

The programs are presented at the Department of Social Services' Conference Room at 1352 Natividad Road, Salinas. For more information, call Children's Services at 754-2212.

Television production taught

The Mission Trails Regional Occupation Program in cooperation with the Monterey County Office of Education is offering a class in television production in Salinas.

The class is offered to adults and high school students interested in careers in television production and related broadcast skills. Students will be trained using the equipment and facilities of the MCOE television station to produce class video projects for broadcast on the educational channel. All aspects of production including camera, sound, lighting, editing and direction will be covered.

The class meets Monday through Friday at various times. For information, call the MCOE studio at 755-6424. The course is free. Students should contact their school career centers for registration. Adults may enroll at the studio.

AIDS patient advocacy training sessions planned

Training sessions on how to be a companion to people who have AIDS or ARC (AIDS Related Complex) have been scheduled by the Monterey County AIDS Project's Companionship-Advocacy Committee.

The sessions, set Jan. 16, 17, 18, 24 and 25, are modeled after the Shanti Project of San Francisco, a hospice for AIDS patients for the past six years, according to Al Syslo, MCAP program director.

The program will cover several areas, including grief; death and dying; the medical aspects of AIDS; suicide; peer counseling and active listening and psychological issues faced by those with AIDS/ARC.

It will also include religion and AIDS; advocacy for AIDS/ARC patients, safe sex practices and substance abuse.

There will be times for processing and role playing. People with AIDS/ARC and other already trained companions will share their own personal accounts.

MCAP, a non-profit corporation made up of volunteers offers a support system of peer counseling and support groups to persons with AIDS/ARC, their families, friends and significant others.

The 40-hour training program will be open only to those who are interested in being companions with AIDS/ARC, and those who are HIV (HTLV-III) positive.

Further information may be obtained by writing to Monterey County AIDS Project, P.O. Box 221785, Carmel 93922; or by calling the MCAP answering serving in Salinas, 424-5550.

There will be a limited number of people accepted for the program. Registration fee is $75.

Diagnostic van tests autos

The California State Automobile Association's Auto Diagnostic Van will be in Monterey through Wednesday, offering more than 60 separate checks of a car's engine and its components, an under-the-hood exam and a fuel economy test to all AAA members.

The Auto Diagnostic Van will be at the CSAA Monterey office 53 Soledad Drive, on an appointment-only basis. Members can call 373-3021 to reserve a time for the $30 diagnosis for their car.

The CSAA Auto diagnosis is unbiased, since CSAA performs no repairs or adjustments. With their car's diagnosis, each motorist receives a detailed written report, which can be taken to their own mechanic if any corrections are advised.

Motorists also receive a complimentary copy of CSAA's "Car Care" booklet, for help with preventative maintenance and troubleshooting.

The Auto-Diagnosis uses up-to-date electronic equipment to evaluate the performance of a vehicle's engine and its components. This evaluation includes cylinder balance as well as the ignition, emission, fuel, cooling and charging systems.

Included in the "under-the-hood" portion of the Auto Diagnosis are checks of the batteries and cables, belt and hoses, and fluid levels. An infrared test of exhaust gases, at the tail pipe provides a fuel economy evaluation. A safety check of the lights and tires completes the Auto Diagnosis.

WHAT'S PLAYING AT THE MOVIES

AN AMERICAN TAIL: This animated feature, set in 1885 New York, tells of a mouse named Fievel Mousekewitz and his family, who are new immigrants in America. Steven Spielberg produces this Don Bluth film. At the Crossroads Cinema. 624-2792.

CHILDREN OF A LESSER GOD: Mark Medoff's Tony Award-winning play provides the basis for this film. William Hurt portrays an unorthodox teacher of the deaf who falls in love with a beautiful, angry, isolated young woman who is his student (Marlee Matlin). Matlin, like all of the actors portraying deaf characters in the film, is hearing-impaired. Randa Haines directs. Rated R. At the Crossroads Cinema. 624-2792.

THE COLOR OF MONEY: Tom Cruise is Vince Lauria, the young pool player who wants to be the best there is, and Paul Newman is the Machiavellian manager who wants a piece of the action. Martin Scorsese directs. Rated R. Ends Dec. 18 at the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

CRIMES OF THE HEART: Diane Keaton, Jessica Lange and Sissy Spacek star as the unconventional McGrath sisters. The comedy is based on Beth Henley's Pulitzer Prize-winning play, and is directed by Bruce Beresford. Sam Shepard and Tess Harper co-star. At the Carmel Village Theatre. 624-5341.

CROCODILE DUNDEE: Paul Hogan stars as an Australian hunter and Linda Kozlowski is the woman who lures him from the outback to teaming New York in this lighthearted romantic adventure. Rated PG-13. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

THE GOLDEN CHILD: Eddie Murphy stars as a Los Angeles freelance social worker who is mistaken by a group of immigrants for the Chosen One who will save the world. At the Valley Cinema. 624-5111.

HEARTBREAK RIDGE: Clint Eastwood stars as a Marine Corps gunnery sergeant who returns to the unit where he began his military career. At Cinema 70. 373-4777.

JUMPIN' JACK FLASH: Whoopi Goldberg stars in this comedy-thriller, which also features Stephen Collins, Carol Kane, John Wood, Roscoe Lee Browne and Annie Potts. Rated R. Ends Dec. 18 at the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

KING KONG LIVES: Opens Thursday, Dec. 18 at the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

LADY AND THE TRAMP: The voices of Peggy Lee and other talents are featured in this animated film from the Disney studios. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

LITTLE SHOP OF HORRORS: Opens Thursday, Dec. 18 at the Regency Theatre. 375-6696.

NO MERCY: The mysterious backwater Louisiana swamps and streets of New Orleans are the setting for the dangerous world of violence and intrigue. Eddie Jillette (Richard Gere), a tough, uncompromising Chicago cop vows revenge when his partner is killed by a kingpin from Bayou country. Journeying to New Orleans, Eddie finds himself attracted to his sole witness, Michel Duval (Kim Basinger). At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

ROCKY HORROR PICTURE SHOW: A send-up of remembered monster movies, with the added twist of music, "The Time Warp," "Over at the Frankenstein Place," and an audience that seems to know the lines better than the actors. A long-standing cult classic. Rated R. At the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

SONG OF THE SOUTH: Live action footage and animated backgrounds and characters are blended in this 1946 Disney production, an interpretation of the tales of Uncle Remus. Rated G. At the Regency Theatre. 375-6696.

STAR TREK IV — THE VOYAGE HOME: In the 23rd century, the world is on the edge of destruction and its only salvation lies in the past. William Shatner, Leonard Nimoy and DeForest Kelley reprise their roles, as does much of the supporting cast from the original TV series. The feature includes scenes shot at the Monterey Bay Aquarium. Nimoy co-wrote and directed. Rated PG. At the State Three Cinemas. 372-4555.

THE THREE AMIGOS: Steve Martin, Chevy Chase and Martin Short portray silent film stars in a small town in 1916 Mexico. John Landis directs from a screenplay by Martin, Lorne Michaels and Randy Newman. At the Crossroads Cinema. 624-2792.

TOP GUN: Tom Cruise is a maverick F-14 pilot and Kelly McGillis is an astrophysicist in this adventure film set in the world of jet fighter pilots attending the Navy's Fighter Weapons School. Ends Dec. 18 at the Dream Theater. 372-1331.

Singing Christmas Tree returns to Pacific Grove

THE 23RD ANNUAL Singing Christmas Tree Performance by the Peninsula Christian Center of Pacific Grove is scheduled for presentation at 7:30 nightly Thursday through Sunday, Dec. 18-21.

This year's theme is "An Old Fashioned Christmas." The performances will be presented indoors at 520 Pine Ave. in Pacific Grove.

Seating is available on a first-come basis and the public is asked to arrive early for assured seating.

Director Linda Dorsett stated, "There is still time for persons wanting to sing in the performance to join the group." For more details, call the Peninsula Christian Center at 373-0431 or Linda Dorsett at 375-8209.

There will be signing for the deaf.

Bedazzled observer

EDDIE MURPHY (right) is dazzled by the supernatural powers of Victor Wong in The Golden Child. Murphy stars as a Los Angeles freelance social worker who discovers that a group believes he is The Chosen One sent to save the world for a thousand future generations.

ROUNDUP

Monterey market open later

The farmers' market, operated weekly in the lower parking lot at Monterey Peninsula College, is now open 2:30 to 6 p.m. Thursdays.

Senior citizens offered check-ups

Free health check-ups for persons over age 55 will be offered by the Senior Citizen and Nursing Services (SCANS) program of the Monterey County Health Department. Appointments are required for the check-ups, which are offered at different sites in Monterey County throughout the month.

The service will be offered in Carmel at the Presbyterian Church, Ocean and Junipero. To make an appointment, call 899-4271 or 757-1061.

Suicide Prevention seeks volunteers

If you are someone who can listen, understand and give calm, competent and gentle support to a distressed person, the Suicide Prevention Center will train you to become a member of a supportive team of volunteers helping people on a crisis line.

Crisis line volunteers serve an average of four hours per week, six months after training.

Volunteers are also needed to assist with the fund-raising committee and speakers' bureau. For more information or an application, call 375-6966, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. After 4 p.m. and on weekends, call 649-8008 or 424-1425.

Beaded gowns recall 'jazz age'

"The Elegant Jazz Age" is the theme of an exhibit of beaded dresses made between 1914 and 1930. The Costume Committee of the Monterey History and Art Association has assembled the collection, which will be shown through January at Pacific House in Monterey.

Admission is free to the exhibit, open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. The committee devoted more than 100 hours to restoring a single fragile, beaded gown. Accessories of the period will also be shown.

Pacific House is located near Custom House Plaza in Monterey. For details, call 372-3740.

Paul Caponigro autographs his 'Megaliths'

FINE ARTS photographer Paul Caponigro will be the guest of honor at a reception and booksigning at the Thunderbird Bookshop, Friday, Dec. 19 from 7 to 9 p.m.

Caponigro will sign his book of photographs Megaliths, a portfolio of work that began in 1966. Megaliths encompasses the tumuli and cairns, standing stones, stone circles and dolmens of the British Isles and Europe. Each photograph is the culmination of time and patience to capture the 'exact right' combination of composition, surrounding natural elements and the 'mystical energy' that draws him to his subjects.

Caponigro states, "I am always focusing a good portion of my attention on what I couldn't see, because it had meaning for me. My photographs and thoughts aim at unearthing hidden aspects of man and his world — a rich heritage that might be awakened in the heart. My hope is that the images will instill a sense of the harmony and interrelatedness of the monuments, as well as of the motivation of the builders. The bearing of these stones suggests deep purpose."

Caponigro's text explains his ongoing involvement with the stones while detailed site description makes this an essential book for travellers, and anyone who seeks to experience the megaliths.

Caponigro's career has included the publication of four monographs (most recently, a retrospective volume, The Wise Silence, NYGS, 1983) and three limited-edition portfolios of original prints — among them his first body of work on the megaliths, Stonehenge (1978). Grants from the Guggenheim Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts have helped support his work in the British Isles, France and Japan. Paul Caponigro currently resides in Santa Fe.

For more information call 624-1803. The Thunderbird Bookshop is in The Barnyard at Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road.

AN INTERNATIONAL collection of megaliths, including Stonehenge, England (1970), is captured in Paul Caponigro's newest book, Megaliths. The lensman will autograph the book during a Friday, Dec. 19 reception at the Thunderbird Bookshop in the Barnyard, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel.

Craftspeople converge at cannery

THROUGH THE end of the month, the historic American Tin Cannery in Cannery Row will be transformed into a marketplace where Santa's helpers will be busy creating distinctive art and craft gifts suitable for holiday giving.

Visitors trying to escape the bustle of the busy shopping malls will be able to watch craftsmen transform stone into sculpture, rags into paper, wood into bird and marine life, even foil into reindeer.

The artists and craftsmen are from all over California. Peninsula exhibitors include Jack Wall of Carmel with bird paintings, John Ray of Fort Ord with authentic Indian crafts, Jon Jefferson of Monterey with wood inlay, and from the Santa Cruz area, Julia Reynolds with hand-painted scarfs and Jessie Tanner with scrimshaw.

Paintings on papyrus will be exhibited for a first time in this area, along with acrylics, pen and ink drawings of California missions, handcarved ironwood and shells, and hand-painted glass. And for the children, there will be handmade doll clothes, face painting, and candy reindeer.

Hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except holidays. Admission is free. The American Tin Cannery is located on Ocean View Boulevard across from the Monterey Bay Aquarium, with free shuttle bus service available.

Variety distinguishes Monterey museum exhibitions

NEW COLLECTIONS opening for view at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art include contemporary dyed textiles by Reiko Sassa, folk art from the collection of Robert Harrington Skiles and a retrospective of paintings by Henrietta Shore.

A major year-end exhibition features the paintings of artist Henrietta Shore, who is just now beginning to win wide recognition as an important American artist.

This is the first show devoted exclusively to Shore since her death. It runs through Jan. 24. After its premiere in Monterey, it will travel to other museums across the United States.

Critics have favorably compared Shore's work to that of Georgia O'Keefe. During Shore's years in Carmel, she was a close friend of photographer Edward Weston, who encouraged her work.

This exhibition is drawn from private collections as well as those of other museums. It is supported in part by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

The museum will present an exhibition of contemporary textiles by Tokyo-based artist and teacher Reiko Sassa, continuing through Jan. 17.

The exhibit will focus on contemporary surface design on textiles utilizing centuries-old Japanese stencil dyeing and freehand techniques with both natural indigo and modern synthetic dyes. This art form was used to apply surface decoration on the textiles used for clothing, futons and noren. A video will feature the artist demonstrating the technique of how raw textiles are transformed into finished art. Also on display will be implements and supplies used for Japanese fabric dyeing.

Sassa's most recent honor was a group showing of an exhibition of selected contemporary folk crafts at the Japan Folk Craft Museum in Tokyo. Her work was accepted as a part of the museum's permanent collection along with works by Japan's National Living Treasures.

After its successful tour in other parts of the country, the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art will display the folk art collection of one of its members, Robert Harrington Skiles. The exhibition of folk art, gathered from more than 25 countries, is titled "The Eye of the Child." It will be on display through Jan. 17.

The objects in the Skiles collection, which took him more than 30 years to gather together, are arranged in three thematic groups: activity, theater and mystery. These groups are intended to stimulate a child's imagination and include such facets of life as weaving, storytelling and the birth-death cycle.

The museum is located at 559 Pacific St. in Monterey. Admission is free.

who collected several awards; and Gail Pierce, curator. The exhibit continues at Marjorie Evans Gallery in Sunset Center through the end of the month.

Cypress Swim Club auditions new members

The award-winning Cypress Swim Club will hold tryouts for potential new members at the Pattullo Swim Center in Seaside on Sunday evenings from 4 to 6 p.m.

Potential applicants should have mastered the basic strokes in freestyle, back stroke and breast stroke. They should be over seven years of age but there is no maximum; swimmers over 20 will be entered into the Cypress Masters program.

Applicants accepted will receive one month of free training in the basics of synchronized swimming, the newest Olympic sport, after which they will be invited to join as regular members.

The Cypress Swim Club is coached by Donn Squire and Del Neel, both nationally and internationally ranked officials of United States Synchronized Swimming and members of the Board of Governors of that organization. In its 22-year history, the club has fielded local, regional, national, and international synchronized champions.

For further information, call the Cypress Swim Club.

NO. 1 MONUMENT

The Old Custom House on Monterey's waterfront is the oldest public building in California. It is the number one state historic monument.

College names photography contest winners

The Monterey Peninsula College Photography Department has announced the winners of its Third Annual Photography Contest. Contestants were judged by Pat Friedman-Ross, Dick Garrod and Clinton Smith.

In the black and white amateur division were Richard McClurkin (first place), and Ansel Thoeny (second place).

In the color amateur division were Mary Jane Thoeny (first place), and Karen Butler (second place).

In the black and white professional division there were Ray Santella (first place) and Richard Gadd (second place).

In the color professional division were Eric Pinchin (first place), and Margaret Stanton (second place).

The works of photography contest winners will be on the exhibit at the Evans Gallery in the Carmel Sunset Cultural Center through Dec. 30.

Jeanne D'Orge paintings shown

PIVOTAL DEVELOPMENTS in the evolution of artist Jeanne D'Orge are explored in "The Faces of Jeanne D'Orge," an exhibit of 16 portraits and character studies now on display through January at the Cherry Foundation in Carmel.

The exhibit, which is drawn from the foundation's permanent collection of more than 300 D'Orge paintings and drawings, includes a number of lesser-known oil paintings as well as works painted on gesso and glassine paper.

The current exhibit — shown from 2 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday — marks the first exhibit for a number of the paintings, some of which have never been displayed in public.

Although best-known for her explosive use of color in landscapes using an assortment of techniques and tools, D'Orge also painted perhaps two dozen luminous portraits including a haunting monochromatic study of child-like images, as well as portraits of friends and her husband, Carl Cherry.

The portraits mark a departure for D'Orge, who painted hundreds of landscapes featuring mysterious, vaguely-sketched groups of people walking in processions or on pilgrimage.

D'Orge's mediums were as diverse as her output was prolific. She would paint on anything she could get her hands on; starting with the table cloth and cookie tins and progressing to window shades and wood, metal, gesso and canvas.

The Cherry Foundation, which was founded by D'Orge in 1947, is located on Fourth and Guadalupe, Carmel.

Ferguson Grant guidelines explained by The Friends

Guidelines for the 1987 Ferguson Grant and the 1987 Ruttenberg Fellowship will be available from The Friends of Photography in January.

The guideline brochure, which contains specific requirements for both awards, can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-letter envelope to Grants, The Friends of Photography, P.O. Box 500, Carmel, California 93921.

Applications for the Ferguson Grant, a $2,000 cash award given yearly to a photographer who has demonstrated excellence in and commitment to creative photography, will be accepted between April 1 and April 15, 1987.

The Friends of Photography presents this grant to assist in the professional and artistic growth of the recipient.

In past years, the Ferguson Grant has been awarded to Anthony Hernandez (1972), Joseph Jachna (1973), Ken Graves (1974), Sally Mann (1975), Richard Misrach (1976), Meridel Rubenstein (1977), Jo Ann Callis (1978), David Maclay (1979), Mark Klett (1980), Susan Felter (1981), Lawrence McFarland (1982), Tamarra Kaida (1983), Catherine Wagner (1984), Linda Robbennolt (1985) and Holly Roberts (1986).

Applications for the Ruttenberg Fellowship, which is designed to support a specific photographic project, will be accepted between May 1 and May 15, 1987. The Fellowship was established in 1982 through a grant from the Ruttenberg Arts Foundation of Chicago.

The award has been presented to Tom Millea (1982), Jim Goldberg (1983), Robert Dawson (1984), Barbara Bosworth (1985) and Derrill Bazy (1986).

For further information, contact Linda Bellon-Fisher at 624-6330.

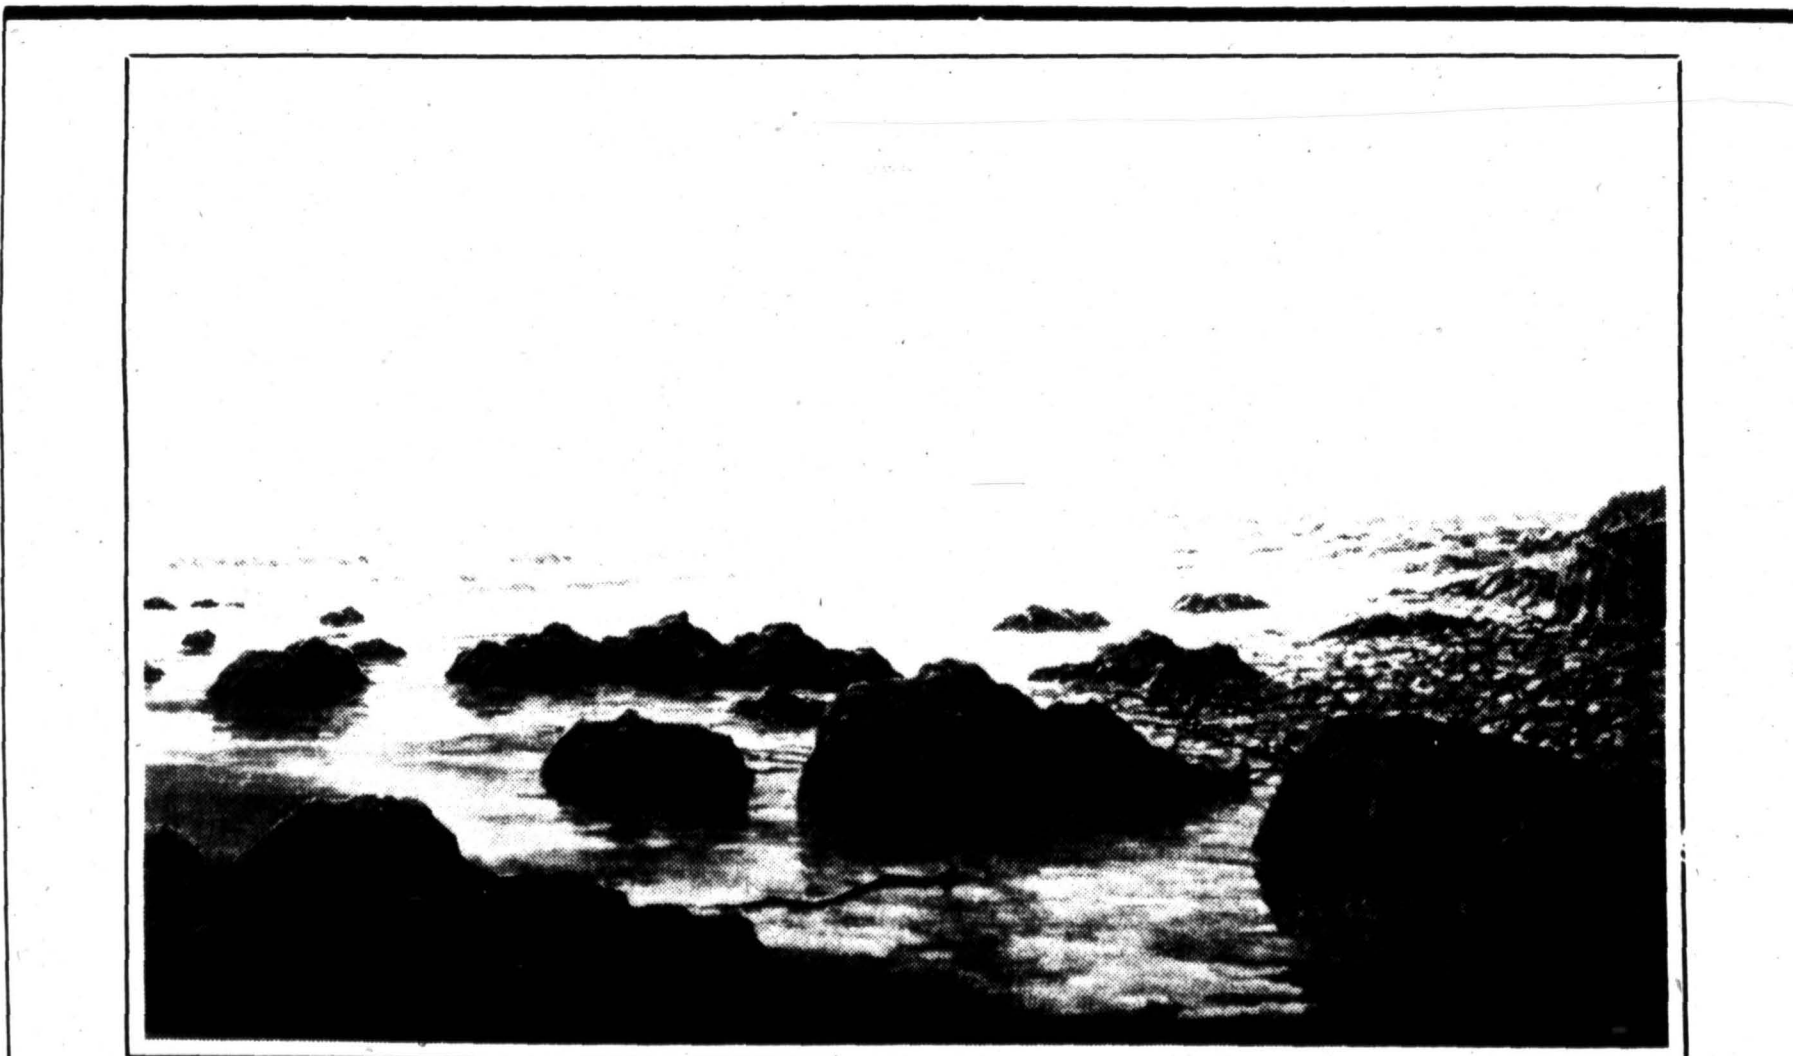

Costumes exhibited at Doud House

The Costume Committee of the Monterey History and Art Association will show a collection of vintage clothing at historic Doud House, located at Van Buren and Scott streets in Monterey.

The exhibit is titled "The Night of Dec. 24, 1910" and relates a two-part story — "I in my Hold-downs and Mama in her Peignoir" and "Fancy Dress, Ready at Last!"

These depict the activities of two families on Christmas Eve. One, at home with the children, enjoys the fireside. The other scene captures a couple dressed for a formal party. Old Monterey families donated the outfits.

Admission is free to the exhibit, shown 2 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays through December. For details, call 372-2608.

CBEST exams scheduled at college

The Monterey Peninsula College Counseling office will administer CBEST, the California Basic Educational Skills Test, which is required for those entering the teaching professions for grades K-12.

The next test will be given Feb. 7. Registration deadline is Jan. 12, or late registration will be offered Jan. 16 for a $3 fee.

Blood pressure checked free

The Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross has established regular blood pressure screenings from 2 to 4 p.m. on Wednesdays at the Red Cross Chapter House, Dolores Street and Eighth Avenue, Carmel.

The Visiting Nurses Association will also check blood pressure free of charge from 2 to 4 p.m. the first and third Wednesdays of each month at a Carmel location. For details, call 373-8943.

Child health clinic scheduled

The Monterey County Health Department will offer a well-baby and child health clinic this month.

Appointments are required for the clinic, offered Monday, Dec. 22 at the Seaside office, 1292 Olympia Ave. To make an appointment, call 899-4271.

Specially trained public health nurses examine and test the child, provide immunizations and counsel about correct feeding and nutrition, growth and development, and dealing with the child's behavior patterns. The clinic also provides school physicals.

Clinic fees are set by sliding scale, based on ability to pay. Minimum fee is $20.
